BEXLEY PASTOR WILL ADDRESS CLASS TONIGHT

Seniors Will Hear Dr. Donald H. Tippett at Chautauqua Pavilion at Park.

PROGRAM STARTS AT 8:15

Miss Jean Gegenheimer Wins D. A. R. Award at Class Day Ceremony.

Commencement exercises tonight at 8:15 at the Chautauqua pavilion [illegible] the high school careers of 232 graduating seniors. Dr. Donald H. Tippett of the Bexley, O., M. E. church, well known public speaker who has delivered several addresses in Marion, will speak to the class and parents and friends on "Youth Faces a New Day."

Graduation follows class day exercises yesterday afternoon at the park attended by several hundred parents and friends. [illegible] Jean Gegenheimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Gegenheimer of 504 Franklin street, was awarded the medal given annually by Captain William Hendricks chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, to the senior making the highest grade in American history and civics. Mrs. James Cooper Strunk made the presentation.

The winner was one of 13 seniors who made a straight "A" average in the course and who took a comprehensive examination to determine who should receive the medal. She received most nearly correct a total of 333 questions. The next highest grade was made by Richard Laucher, who was recommended to the chapter for recognition.

Has Highest Grades

In addition to receiving the medal, Miss Gegenheimer was presented to the group as the senior having the highest scholastic average, based on a straight "A" average for three years and a numerical average of 95.75 for one year [illegible] the high school adopted the method of grading by letter. She also has a record of being neither absent nor tardy during the four years of high school.

Three seniors, Dale Schmidt, Richard Laucher and Frank Robbins, were presented scholarship certificates for having scored the highest marks in Marion county in a district examination given in April. Although the certificates do not carry a scholarship, those who receive them generally are successful in applications for scholarships to universities and colleges which recognize the test, given annually by the state department of education.

The program opened with a processional march played by the high school orchestra under the direction of Homer Huffman, instrumental music supervisor. John Hamlin, senior class president, in his farewell address expressed the appreciation of his classmates for the sacrifices made by their parents, the guidance of their teachers and school officials, the friends who connected with the school but who in supporting its projects, and to the sophomores and juniors for their co-operation in making senior activities marked successes. Ray Stout, junior class president, congratulated the departing seniors on having contributed to the prosperity of the high school and said it would be the undertaking of this year's junior class to equal the challenge of the class of '37.

Reads Class History

Mary Louise Hume read the class history, dealing with the various activities since junior high school, following a violin selection, Concerto in G Major," by Reid, played by Pauline Erow with Betty Lusch at the piano. A two-piano arrangement of the "Blue Danube Waltz" was played by Ray K. Smith and Junior Denzer. The class will, prepared by Virginia Knight, Olen Flickenger, Jerald Quigley, Mary Lou Sifritt and Margaret Watt, was presented by Quigley in the role of a newspaper reporter, telephoning a story to his editor.

Two songs by the girls' ensemble "Lullaby," by Mozart and "Song of Spring," by Clarke, preceded the distributing of the class prophecy, a magazine issued June 4, 1947, at the coronation of Princess Elizabeth as Queen of England. The booklet was prepared by Martha Jane Rogers, Robert Bartlett, Alice Kerr, Dale Schmidt and Jane Uncapher. Singing of the school song and a recessional march closed the program.

4,000 from Five States Are Huber Picnic Guests

HARDING SPEAKER

Dr. Donald H. Tippett of the Bexley, O., M. E. church, above, will be the speaker at the annual Harding High school commencement exercises tonight at 8:15 at the Chautauqua pavilion.

Program and Feast Feature Annual Thresher-men's Event.

Approximately 4,000 persons from Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Kentucky and Pennsylvania attended the annual threshmen's picnic yesterday at the Huber Manufacturing Co. plant on North Greenwood street. The picnic has been an annual company event for about 20 years.

The affair began at about 9 in the morning and continued until nearly 4 p. m. with something going on all the time.

Probably the most food consumed in Marion in one place at one time since last year's picnic was devoured yesterday. With the famous thresherman's appetite, the visitors filed through a large room at the shop from 11:30 until nearly 1 p. m. in four separate lines to be served.

"Mountains of Food"

The "lunch," as it was called by company officials today, consisted of literaly mountains of food.

Between 8,000 and 9,600 wieners were devoured, 9,600 buns, 200 loaves of bread, between 300 and 400 gallons of coffee, 3,600 large dill pickles and 200 pounds of cheese. An hour to an hour and a half was required to serve the thousands of men, women and children. There were 500 pounds of wieners and 75 of coffee.

The visitors were for the most part farmers and their families from Ohio, many from Indiana and Pennsylvania, and a few from Michigan and Kentucky. Old customers of the company, users of tractors and other machinery made up the bulk of the crowd.

Talks Given

The program opened with an address of welcome by M. E. Miller, company sales director, and the response was given by George Durban of Columbus. O. E. Stapleton of Troy, new secretary for the Ohio Brotherhood of Threshermen, also gave a short talk.

Arrangements for the picnic and handling of the lunch and program were in charge of John M. Miller, sales manager.

In the afternoon program of entertainment which began at about 1 o'clock, Jimmy Brown of Marion and his orchestra were featured. Two contests for the women present were staged, one a balloon pushing event and another a race in which the contestants had to walk on strips of paper.

An amateur entertainment contest in which 17 entrants competed was won by six-year-old Doris Ann Holfinger of Covington, O., who played accordian selections. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Holfinger. First prize was $15. The second prize of $10 went to the Myers brothers of Carey for songs to the accompaniment of harmonica and guitar. Third prize went to the Hixons, boy and girl song team, of Marengo.

Fourteen others entered from Stewart, Samantha, Attica, Bellevue, Holgate, Clyde and Green Springs. Other entrants included the James brothers of Delaware, Dale Kent of Bucyrus and Mrs. Wanders of Carey.

COURT REFORM STILL PRESSED

Roosevelt Indicates He May Be Willing To Accept Some Form of Compromise.

ROBINSON PLANS CHANGE

President Complains Over Tribunal's Failure To Decide Several Cases.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 4—President Roosevelt said today there was no question that the court reorganization bill would be passed this session. He made the statement at his press conference, at the same time parrying questions about a compromise.

The President, however, when he said Sen. Robinson, the Democratic leader, had given a correct statement last night to newspapermen, indicated the administration might accept some compromise proposal.

(Robinson said certain amendments would be offered to the bill when it came up on the floor and that he may offer one himself.)

Says People for It

The President said the American people wanted court reform. He complained that while the supreme court was entitled to a recess it had adjourned for the summer without deciding several important cases in which the administration was vitally interested.

Speaking in metaphor, the President said, with regard to the proposal to enlarge the supreme court unless older justices retire, that the country in recent weeks had seen a forest while a lot of people in Washington were likely to see trees instead of a forest.

His forest remark was understood by his hearers to have reference to court reform generally; the trees relating to the number of new judges needed.

Asked, finally, about a possible compromise on two new judges instead of six as he originally proposed, the President said the inquirer was talking about trees while he was talking about court reform.

"How many trees to make a forest?" someone asked.

He smiled but did not answer.

Cites Delayed Decisions

The President said an illustration of the need for court reform was given by the high tribunal last week in adjourning until October without deciding four cases important to the country. He listed them as the TVA case, which had been decided only partially before; the PWA cases involving the right of the federal government to lend money to municipalities for power

BLOOD TRANSFUSION GIVEN JUDGE GAST

Probate Judge Oscar Gast of 737 South Prospect street received approximately a pint of blood from his brother, Harry Gast of Prospect, in a transfusion today at 12:30 p. m. at the City hospital.

The attending physician said today that Judge Gast is not showing improvement and that the transfusion was made as a precautionary measure since apparently there was still slight hemorrhage from a gastric ulcer.

Members of Judge Gast's family underwent blood tests on Monday when he was taken to the hospital, and it was found that the blood of his brother matched as to type. His brother is cashier at the Prospect Citizens bank.

Judge Gast's condition, while not showing improvement, is not worse, and remains "serious but not critical," the physician said. He was taken ill over the weekend.

Scioto-Sandusky Board Likely To Be Dissolved

Officials Say President's New Flood Control Plan Probably Will Take Over Work.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 4—Dissolution of the Scioto-Sandusky conservancy district was seen today by two directors as a possible result of President Roosevelt's proposal to set up regional authorities to plan safeguards against floods, drouths and dust storms and to administer federal power projects.

"If this plan (the President's) goes through the Scioto-Sandusky conservancy district probably will be absorbed by the regional authority which the federal government will set up," said Director Joseph VanMeter of Waverly.

"Although details of the President's plan have not been worked out, there is a possibility that local districts such as the Scioto-Sandusky will continue to function in some capacity.

"All the work the district has done on flood control matters and all its data will be put at the disposal of the federal government when it is ready to take over the project. We are chiefly interested in getting flood control and protection in the Ohio valley watershed. If the federal government can do this, the district will aid."

Director B. B. Smith of Fremont, expressing the same view, said that it is difficult to predict what congress might do with the President's proposal.

"I think the federal government will take over the work of the district," Smith said.

The Scioto-Sandusky district contemplated erection of a series of dams and reservoirs similar to those in the Muskingum and Miami valleys to provide flood control and a system of water conservation.

TRAP EVENTS OPEN TODAY AT BUCYRUS CLUB

Hillsboro Shooter Keeps Ohio Doubles Crown by Breaking 92 Out of 100.

NEWARK MAN IS SECOND

More Than 500 on Hand for Annual Event at Gun Club Grounds.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, June 4 — With the bark of the first gun in the opening program of the three-day Ohio state trapshoot which began here this morning, Joe Hiestand, the Hillsboro "farmer boy," leaped to the foreground by successfully defending his state amateur doubles crown.

Hiestand led the field of 38 entrants by cracking 92 of 100 birds to win the state doubles championship for the second consecutive year. Although his performance wasn't up to the record-smashing feat he turned in last year by cracking 96 of 100 targets in the state trials at Toledo, it was good enough to lead his nearest rival by two targets.

In second place was John Taylor of Newark with 90 out of 100, while Ned Lilly of Lansing, Mich., and W. Eldred of Cincinnati tied for honors with 89 each. Among the top shooters were L. C. Turock of Cleveland with 86, I. L. Cunningham of Coshocton 88 and C. Wehr of Hamilton 85. Only one other shooter, Karl Maust, a Columbus professional, equaled Hiestand's amateur mark during this morning's competition.

Maust's performance nets him the state professional crown for the same division. The Columbus shooter, formerly of Michigan, held that state's crown before turning professional. The opening program attracted a crowd of more than 500 trap gun enthusiasts and larger attendances are expected as the shoot continues. The doubles classic began at 10:15 o'clock and continued until noon, with the handicap competition set for completion this afternoon.

C. A. "Sparrow" Young, Springfield's famous trapshooting octogenarian, was among the early entries in the handicap. He however, did not take part in the doubles affair. The present state title holder in the handicap, C. A. Porter of Mulberry, was on hand to defend his title, which he gained by breaking 92 of 100 birds at Toledo last year.

The shoot is being held on the grounds of the Bucyrus Gun club, located two miles southwest of Bucyrus on the Wyandot road. Saturday will be taken up entirely with the state class championship and the gala program of the shoot, Sunday, will be devoted to the selection of state singles, ladies and junior champions.

Among spectators this morning were many followers of the trap gun game from the immediate vicinity, including Marion, Kenton, Broadway, Cardington, Raymond, Upper Sandusky Prospect and Mansfield. A number of the trapshooters are registered at Marion hotels, travelling to and from the field of battle.

Bucyrus club officials have raised several giant tents at the scene, for use as resting and eating places. Wives of the members are serving luncheo throughout the three-day session.

DELAWARE FACTORY TO BE LIQUIDATED

President of Firm Determined To Act as Result of Fremont Strike.

By The Associated Press

FREMONT, O., June 4—W. F. Emmons, president of a woman's garment factory bearing his name, said yesterday he would start liquidation of plants here and in Delaware as the result of a strike in the Fremont plant.

His statement followed a demonstration here earlier yesterday by 30 women who were laid off last week, augmented by their husbands and sympathizers from three cutlery plants in which strikes are in progress.

Only about 75 employes entered the plant although 165 went through the lines Wednesday, Emmons said. He said 206 persons normally were employed here and 50 at Delaware.

Today's melee was the first violence to mark more than two weeks of labor trouble here. Emmons said he feared homes of employes who sought to continue work might be endangered if the plant remained in operation.

Delaware Police Ready To Act

DELAWARE, O., June 4—Although no dispute has arisen at the Delaware plant of the W. F. Emmons Mfg. Co., Delaware police are prepared to maintain order if violence should break out in the event of an unexpected labor dispute, Chief of Police Earl Amrine said late yesterday.

The Delaware plant is continuing its usual work, although it cannot be foretold whether the dispute will spread from the strike center at the company's plant at Fremont.

MARION WELCOMES RAINBOW VETERANS

LEADERS IN RAINBOW VETERANS MEETING

RUSSELL MASTON

SHERIFF FRED MILLER

CARL THIMMES

IRVIN C. HENRY

LELAND L. WHITNEY

W. M. LAUGHMAN

Above are six men who are taking a prominent part in the two-day meeting of the Ohio Rainbow Division Veterans association which opened today at Hotel Harding.

Mr. Whitney, a former Marion resident and now a Cleveland attorney, is president of the national association, and Mr. Thimmes, whose home is in Akron, is the state association president. Mr. Henry, more familiarly known to Rainbow men as "Jack," lives in Marysville. He is state secretary-treasurer and editor of the Ohio Rainbow Reveille.

The brunt of the arranging for the meeting fell to Sheriff Miller, convention chairman by virtue of his office as first vice president of the state association. He was assisted by Mr. Laughman, a past state president who is now serving as a member-at-large of the executive committee, and Mr. Maston, president of Dyer J. Bird chapter of Marion which is host to the visitors.

2-DAY MEETING OPENS TODAY

Between 400 and 500 Expected From All Parts of State by Tonight.

AUXILIARY ALSO MEETS

Sheriff Fred Miller of Marion Boosted for President of Ohio Association.

Members of the Rainbow division, famous World war unit whose members were among the first 100,000 American soldiers to arrive in France for World war service, came into Marion from all parts of Ohio and some from other states as the Ohio Rainbow Veterans association opened its eighteenth annual convention.

Many of the visiting veterans were accompanied by their wives, who will hold a business session of the auxiliary tomorrow. The groups will meet together at banquets tonight and Saturday night and will, hold separate business sessions tomorrow. Both will elect state officers.

Marion made final preparations yesterday to receive the visitors. Streets were decorated with flags and signs in windows of merchants welcomed the association.

The registration rolls approached the 200 mark at noon today, and was expected to reach between 400 and 500 before the end of the two-day reunion.

One of the highlights of the program will be an address at a banquet Saturday night by Wilbur M. Brucker, Detroit attorney, former governor and former secretary of state of Michigan.

Boost Miller for President

Although today's activities were scheduled to be purely social and recreational with the exception of a state association executive committee meeting tonight, early arrivals this morning started a campaign for the election of Sheriff Fred F. Miller of Marion as state association president to succeed Carl Thimmes of Akron. Sheriff Miller, as vice president, is in charge of convention arrangements.

President Thimmes and Irvin C. "Jack" Henry of Marysville were among the small group of convention visitors that arrived last night. Among the early arrivals today are Mrs. Elton Lampman of Columbus, national president of the auxiliary, and Mrs. H. A. Patterson of Columbus, president of the state auxiliary.

Others expected to arrive this afternoon include Leland Whitney, Cleveland attorney, former Marion resident, who is national president of the Rainbow Division Veterans association.

An registration headquarters were opened on the mezzanine of Hotel Harding in charge of Sheriff Miller and six assistants, officers of the state association outlined activities for their annual reunion and emphasized that the program would be largely social and recreational. Virtually the only business scheduled is the election of officers, President Thimmes said. He said it is doubtful whether any resolutions will be presented for action.

An visitors arrived, each was

AN OLD CHINESE CUSTOM

Making false money is a legitimate business in China. Relatives burn it for the departed, believing it is transformed into spiritual cash for the soul to use in the next world. Free of such superstitions, ambitious folks in this country concentrate on making real money. One way to do so is by transforming an article no longer wanted into cash through a Want Ad in The Star, like this:

2 RUGS, good condition. Will sell reasonably, 312 S. Grand after 6:30.

Here's what the advertiser said: "My Star want ad secured lots of calls—and sold the rugs. I am very well pleased."

Rainbow Vets' Leader Back In Old Home Town

Leland L. Whitney of Cleveland, National President, Is Former Marion Man.

Today's reunion and convention for men of the Ohio Association of Rainbow Division Veterans and their ladies is homecoming day for their national president, Leland L. Whitney of Cleveland, "Ell" to his buddies and close friends.

Mr. Whitney is a graduate of Marion High school, class of 1913 and, to quote him, "I have always had a warm spot in my heart for Marion and I am always delighted to meet Marion people."

The Whitney family was identified with Marion from 1907 to 1923 when the parents, Homer R. Whitney and the late Mrs. Adah Fuller Whitney moved to Sandusky, O., to live with a son, Merlyn R. Whitney. Mrs. Whitney died June 25, last year.

Rainbow Division President Whitney was employed at the Erie railroad office of the division superintendent here for three years after graduating from high school and at that time was a member of the Marion Tennis club, which listed among its members Earl T. Smart, Howard R. Stoll and Don Marshman, now of Cleveland.

Once Rejected by Army

In 1916 he matriculated at the University of Illinois. When war was declared he tried to enter the first Officers' Training Camp, but was rejected on the grounds of defective eyesight. Still determined to go to war he returned to Marion and enlisted in Co. D, Fourth Ohio Infantry, which became the 166th Infantry of the Rainbow.

From private he advanced to corporal and then to sergeant's stripes, and served with the regiment until Oct. 5, 1918, when he was trans-

STRIKE LEADER TO MEET DAVEY

Murray States Conference But Declares Peace Depends on Signed Contract.

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 4—Philip Murray, gray-haired chieftain of John L. Lewis' steel forces, uncompromisingly declared a union contract must be signed as he scheduled his first peace conference today in a bloody seven-state strike against three major producers.

As the CIO Steel Workers Organizing Committee added a mine organizing campaign to its widespread great lakes battlefront in an effort to choke off ore supplies to one-sixth of the steel industry, Murray said he would confer at Columbus with Ohio's governor and asserted:

"I'm not going to settle this strike until Tom Girdler signs an agreement."

Girdler, 60-year-old pipe-smoking chairman of Republic Steel Corp., the only one of three concerns attempting to operate in the face of militant picket lines, was Murray's target at a strikers' mass meeting last night in Warren, O.

Declaring that Girdler "wasn't a steel man—he was chief of the police force at Jones & Laughlin before he was dragged by the bootstraps to be president of Republic," the slender SWOC leader added:

"I'm here to tell Tom that he's not going to get much more ore."

A few hours before, he had an-

Vets Honor Dyer J. Bird, First Rainbow Man Killed

Was Native of Union County and Enlisted Here at 18; Marion Chapter Bears His Name.

Because Dyer J. Bird, the first man of the Rainbow Division killed overseas, was a member of Company D, 166th Infantry of Marion, and the fact that the Marion chapter of the Ohio Rainbow Division Veterans' association is named in his honor, the eighteenth annual reunion and convention here today and Saturday has added significance for the veterans.

Although Bird was a native of Broadway in Union county and lived there most of his life, he was working in Marion when he enlisted on June 17, 1917, at the age of 18.

His father, Edward C. Bird, who is now sexton of the cemetery at Milford Center in Union county, was living in Marion when his son enlisted.

Two men best able to tell the how men who swept into France, Bird was the first to meet his death. He was killed the night of March 1-2, 1918, at Domjevin, France, by a German raiding patrol.

Brilliant Chapter in the History of American Soldiers' Participation in World War Written by Rainbow Division

"The share which the 42nd Division has had in the success of our armies should arouse pride in its achievements among all ranks."—General John J. Pershing.

"It distinguished itself on every battlefield and its achievements are a magnificent page in the history of a great achievement."—Newton D. Baker as secretary of war.

The Rainbow division of which the Ohio association is meeting in reunion today and Saturday in Marion, earned many deep expressions of praise for its record of 180 days in the face of the enemy, some in lustier phraseology than the above quotations, but coming from the commander-in-chief of the American Expeditionary Forces and the then secretary of war, the two expressions quoted from the division's history, carry the feeling not only of Americans in general, but the Allied forces as well.

Only two divisions exceeded the Rainbow's record in battle, the First with 220 days and the 26th with 193.

Recall Old Times

When Rainbow men get together as they are in Marion today, talk naturally is of the days "over there," and of the caucus held at Neurnahr in the Rhineland on March 25, 1919, to form the Rainbow Division Veterans Association, "so that the associations and friendships formed during the war service of the division might bring its members together at least once a year in an annual convention."

The late General Benson W. Hough of Delaware county who was serving as federal judge in the Columbus district when he died about a year ago, was the first president of the association. The anniversary of the Champagne battle on July 15, 1918, was chosen as the date for the annual convention, and Birmingham, Ala., was chosen as the place for the first convention. Ohio has been host to the national association twice, in 1921 at Cleveland and in 1928 in Columbus, and is looking forward to its third opportunity to entertain the famous division on July 13-14, again in Columbus.

When Brigadier Henry J. Reilly's history of the division, "Americans All," was published last summer, Marion Rainbow men took particular pride in the volume.

Major George T. Geran of 551 South Vine street was mentioned prominently in the introduction and Company D, 166th Infantry of Marion was credited with having gotten closer to Sedan than any other American company. Company E of Marysville in Union county was mentioned for its nickname, "The German Company," derived from the fact that one of its members was a grandson of a Prussian. Ernest Koenig, who helped defeat the French at Sedan in 1870. Three other grandsons, cousins of the Marysville company member, were fighting in the German army.

Geran's Leadership Mentioned

Major Geran was cited in the introductory pages for his tactics in using riflemen to overcome the German machine guns during the Ourcq battle, one of the fiercest phases of the Chateau Thierry conflict, and in the volume several pages described the assault battalion under Major Geran in the St. George phase of the Argonne fight.

Rainbow veterans take warranted pride in the history of their division which was unique in many war annals.

The Rainbow division was the answer to the war department's question of whether the national guard could be trusted to fight in France. The future military policy of the United States depended on the answer, and the Rainbow and other national guard divisions played such a part on the battlefields of France that the foundation was laid for the national defense act of 1920.

Newton Baker, who was President Wilson's secretary of war, in his introduction in "Americans All," stated, "The Rainbow Division was both an accident and an inspiration," and went on to explain in part as follows:

"When we went into the World war, the ranks of the national guard had been recruited for service on the Mexican border and its various units had spent months in active service there. The guard was organized into divisions but only two states, New York and Pennsylvania, had complete divisions.

"The national guard contingents of the other states were grouped for divisional organizations and there were, in the states, a large number of surplus organizations which really were not parts of any division. A troop of cavalry here, a company or regiment of infantry there, signal and medical corps units and quarter-master contingents beyond the need of the division to which their several states were organically attached.

Problem Arises

"The first organized American division to go overseas after our entry into the war was the First regular division. Then the department began to face the problem of the order in which our soldiers should be sent. Subsequent regular divisions depended upon recruiting and training. The national guard divisions in the most advanced state of training were presumably those of New York and Pennsylvania, but if either of those divisions went first, public opinion in their states might well be anxious and public opinion in other states regard their selection as a preference. This problem was presented to me by General William A. Mann, then chief of the militia division in the war department. General Douglas MacArthur who was then a major attached to my office, was with me when I had the conference with General Mann. I asked the general whether there were not enough surplus units in the various states to make up a composite division which would have elements from many states, in all parts of the country, so that it would be in a true sense an All-American division. General Mann and General MacArthur left my office to study the answer to the suggestion I had made and returned with a list of organizations to compose such a division. General MacArthur enthusiastically described it as 'stretching like a rainbow clear across the United States.' I then directed such a division to be formed and told General Mann that I thought he ought to be its first commanding officer and take it overseas and that MacArthur ought to go as his chief of staff, a suggestion most enthusiastically received by the general."

General MacArthur, who was also press censor for the war department at the time and received the correspondents daily, gives the following account of the naming of the famous division:

"The day it was decided to give out the news about the first composite division as yet unnamed and unnumbered, I received the representatives of the press as usual.

Tells About Formation.

"I told them I had an interesting piece of news for them. I said, 'We have organized on paper at least, the first national guard division and the first division other than the First division of the regular army, to be designated for service in France.'

"'We have not numbered it. That will come later.'

"I told them that we had decided, that is, the war department, headed by the secretary of war, Mr. Baker, to make this division as representative as possible of the whole union. I explained how in following out this idea while at the same time picking units with records for efficiency, we had selected units from 26 states. I pointed out the interesting fact that this happened to be the number of states in the German empire.

"After talking along these lines for several minutes, I said, in the make up and promise of the future of this division it resembles a rainbow.

"As I remember, one of the correspondents spoke up and said, 'Rainbow—there's the name for the division—I shall call it the Rainbow in my dispatch.' I believe a number of others adopted this idea. So that the first composite division was announced to the country as 'The Rainbow Division'. We promptly took up the name in the war department as a convenient means of designating this as yet unnumbered division."

"Before its organization had been completed the original plan was changed. It was decided that the second composite division should be from New England alone and not from the nation as a whole. In other words, while the first composite division was organized as a national one the second one was organized as a New England one only.....

"It had been decided to keep the numbers 1 to 25 for the regular army. Therefore, the number 26 was given to the New England division. The next nearest division being that of New York it was given the number 27. The numbering was continued in this fashion until the last regular division, that of the Pacific northwest, was given the number 41.

"While all this was going on the first and only national composite division was called 'The Rainbow.' In other words, throughout all the organization of the national guard divisions it stuck out in everyone's mind in the war department as a special division. Finally, it was decided to give it the number 42."

Thus is told the story of the organizing, naming and numbering of "The Rainbow Division," the "famous 42nd." Major William A. Mann was commander and General MacArthur was chief of staff.

Another Historian

One historian wrote: "In general, however, it was not the need of large armed forces to be sent by the United States, but the benefits to be derived from letting the armies in Europe see enough American soldiers to know that America was in the war, and to have them come from all over the Union so that the American people would realize they were in the war, which was emphasized at the time it was decided to form a composite division, first named the Rainbow, and later given the number '42'."

And what of the Ohio association's 1937 reunion city while the war department was laying its plans in Washington?

Marion's Company D of the 166th Infantry with its 150 men including Leland Whitney, who is now serving as national commander of the Rainbow association and Dyer J. Bird of Broadway in Union county who was the first Rainbow man killed overseas, left Marion in July of 1917 for Camp Perry. In two weeks recruits numbered 250 men. From Camp Perry the company went to Camp Mills, Long Island for what has been termed "an experience which at the time seemed dull and even exasperating but which was to profoundly affect its entire history."

For two long months, men of 26 different units, impatient to sail for France, were under canvas at Camp Mills, being moulded into a united whole from which sank every sectional, racial, religious and vocational prejudice, emerging in the deep bond of comradeship which being a member of the Rainbow division has come to mean to the men who are meeting in Marion this week-end and who will gather in a larger body next month in Columbus.

The greater part of the division sailed from Hoboken, N. J., on Oct. 18, 1917, and landed at St. Nazaire, France, Nov. 1.

Pershing Describes Record

General Pershing, after reviewing the Rainbow on a plain near the Rhine, between Kripp and Remagen on March 16, 1919, wrote to Major General Clement A. F. Flagler, commanding the 42nd division and in his letter gave the following brief review of the Rainbow's service record:

"Arriving as it did on Nov. 1, 1917, it was one of the first of our combat divisions to participate in active operations. After a period of training which lasted through the middle of February, 1918, it entered the Luneville sector in Lorraine, and shortly afterward took up a position in that part of the line near Baccarat. In July it magnificently showed its fighting ability in the Champagne-Marne defensive, at which time units from the 42nd Division aided the French in completely repulsing the German attack. Following this, on July 25 the division relieved the 26th in the Aisne-Marne offensive, and in the course of their action there captured LaCroix Rouge Ferme, Sergy and established themselves on the northern side of the Ourcq. In the St. Mihiel offensive the division made a rapid advance of 10 kilometers, capturing seven villages. Later, during the Meuse-Argonne battle, it was twice put in the line, first under the 5th Corps and second under the 1st Corps, at which later time it drove back the enemy until it arrived opposite Sedan on Nov. 7.

"Since the signing of the Armistice, the 42nd division has had the honor of being one of those composing the army of occupation, and I have only words of praise for their splendid conduct and demeanor during this time. I want each man to realize the part he has played in bringing glory to American arms, and to understand both my pride and the pride of their fellows throughout the American Expeditionary Forces in their record. My good wishes accompany your command on its return to the United States and my interest will remain with its members in their future careers."

Organization Formed

It was during the stay on the Rhine that the caucus was held which led to the organizing of the Rainbow Division association.

Early in April, 1919, the units of the Rainbow left the Rhine by train for Brest, the closest French post to the United States after 15 months' service in France and Germany.

More than 12,000 Rainbow men were among the first to sail on the Leviathan. Of much more interest to those Rainbow men gathered in Marion today who were on the Leviathan, than her proud record of troops transported during the war, was the number of eggs they were allowed to eat on the trip home.

Asked what he thought the men would like best for their first breakfast, the Army troop commander of the day told the Navy commanding officer "eggs and lots of them." That first breakfast the 12,000 soldiers on board disposed of more than 60,000 eggs, historians aver.

Another record set on the Leviathan trip was made by the infantry when the 12,000 men, told that the start home would be delayed because of insufficient labor to coal the huge liner, set to and to the music of four bands, coaled the ship—probably quicker than any ship was ever coaled in history.

The last of the Rainbow left France April 18, eighteen months to a day from the departure of the first large convoy from Hoboken.

They had earned and were entitled to, their third gold overseas service chevron showing 18 months of overseas service and on their sleeves with the gold chevrons were the red chevron showing discharge and the Rainbow, insignia of the division.

To go into a history of the division would be to virtually cover every major battle of the last 18 months of the World war, to describe the horrors of war as only those who were "over there" could know them. But there was humor, as the pages of "Americans All" reveal from time to time, the hardy, gusty humor of fighting men of all nationalities, all creeds, all professions, all vocations, living from day to day, amazing the Allies with their store of reserve energy which sent them on sight-seeing scoutings after a long day's march.

Billeted in Spas

When they were sent into the Rhineland after the Armistice was signed, the men and officers were billeted in the big hotels in a region of German health resorts built around famous springs in the Ahr valley and along the Rhine. They revelled in the luxuries.

An irrepressible orderly of the late General Hough who was then a colonel, and who, according to historians, never hesitated to reprove the colonel when he did not think the colonel's cigars were good enough, summed up beautifully what the members of the Rainbow felt.

The orderly was overheard to say, "Come here quick, colonel, here's a real bathroom with electric light, hot water and everything else and it all works." In France the few times such conveniences were encountered they very often did not work.

Summed up, here is some Rainbow data: The Rainbow lost to the enemy only 112 prisoners, all during patrols within the German lines or during attacks, none by defeat; the Rainbow lost 2,810 killed in action or died of wounds received in action and 11,573 wounded in action, a total of 14,653 at the hands of the enemy, or more than 50 per cent of the authorized strength of the division; replacements received approximated 20,000, giving an approximate total of 43,500 men and officers who served in the division from first to last; thus, approximately 30.6 per cent of those who served were killed or wounded by the enemy, a higher price paid than was true of most American divisions.

The following poem, "Men of the Forty-Second," written by C. L. Corneille of Battery B, 150th Field Artillery, dedicated to his comrades and copyrighted in 1934, was made a part of the standard burial ritual of the Rainbow Division Veterans at the national convention in Columbus in 1935, and covers the service of the division:

"In retrospect I see once more
A tented city beside the sea
I hear the muffled drum of war.
The bugler's call of Reveille.

An inland camp, I see it form
In smouldering glow of bivouac fires;
Shrouded in mist of Autumn morn,
Nestling close to Gotham's Spires.

I see the phantom forms of men
Swiftly form in straightened ranks.
With measured tread they march, and then—
I lose them on the fog swept banks.

I see them cross the mighty Main,
Setting their course for Biscay's shore.
At Saint Nazaire in fog and rain
They pitch their camp beside the Loire.

I see them trudge the Roman Way
Where Caesar and his legions stood.
Where Clovis vainly sought to slay
Every peasant of Breton blood.

And then again at Luneville,
At Reherrey and Merviller;
I see them camped at Hallainville,
And see the attack on Ancerviller.

I hear the Quads in midnight runs,
I see bright flares toward Montigny.
Hear the staccato of Chaut-Chaut guns,
The dull booming of a battery.

I tread the Champagne's chalky soil
With American and brave 'Poilu'
I see the Prussian Guard recoil
Where Berger kept his 'Rendezvous'.

I stand at Saint Hilaire-le-Grande,
I see again the shell-lit sky
On Bastile Night near old Chalons,
I heard Gouraud say 'Stand or Die'.

And then the Ourcq—the shrapnel storm
The spot where valient Kilmer died
On nature's couch, his crumpled form
Beneath the trees he glorified.

At Meurcy Ferme, I see the dead,
The bitter fight in Sergy's street.
Hear the drone of planes high overhead,
At Flames I see the foe retreat.

I see them wend their weary way
Through Neufchateau and Landauville.
I see them pause at old Mandres,
Then on toward quaint old Saint Mihiel.

In triumph I see them pass Beaumont,
I see them climb hard-fought Mont Sec.
I hear their guns at Exermont,
Guns that the enemy could not check.

I see the tangled Argonne Wood,
The bloody field of Sommerance.
The death trap road where Fleville stood,
My dying comrades—the last advance.

And then a 'Rainbow' forms an arch
And through its portals in the van
I see the Forty-Second march—
And lo, the spires of Sedan."

65 SUMMONED ON PARKING CHARGES

Suspended Fines Assessed at First Session, Must Pay in Future, Judge Says

Traffic court, the first regular session in recent months for minor parking violators, was held this morning Sixty five persons cited for infractions most of which were overtime parking were assessed suspended fines of $1 and $2 by Municipal Judge Martin

Of the 65 cited all except 20 had appeared in court up to noon today and were dismissed with the warning that on the next offense the fine suspended today would be invoked Judge Martin asserted that drivers cited during the past week received suspended fines because today was the first court session since the present drive against minor violators was begun

Hereafter Judge Martin said no fines will be suspended In dicating that those who receive tickets after this morning will be fined Of the entire group cited by officers 60 were for overtime parking violations two for double parking and three for parking within less than 10 feet of a fire hydrant

TO MAP PLANS FOR PROGRAM

Final Rehearsal for Broadcast Over WOSU June 7 To Be Held Here Tonight.

Plans will be completed tonight for the radio broadcast Monday night by Marion county 4-H club members under the direction of Raymond W. Pifer, assistant county agent. A final rehearsal of the program will be held at 8 o'clock at the office of County Agent S. L. Anderson.

The club broadcast will be heard over station WOSU at Columbus at 570 kilocycles on the regular farm-night program. Those taking part will be Lowell Douce and Ruth Baldinger of Tully township, Lucille Gerfen of Waldo, Kirk Moreland of Marion township, Pauline Anthony of Claridon township and Mr. Pifer. Miss Baldinger will furnish music.

The program will center around a discussion of the leaders' and officers' camp held last year and the one to be held this June 17-19 at Camp John Owens. The camp this year will feature discussions by Miss Edna Callahan, clothing specialist, Miss Norma Aschbacher, nutrition specialist, and L. K. Boer, extension animal husbandman, all of Ohio State university.

H. W. Hirshfield, assistant state 4-H club leader, will preside at the camp. Miss Lucille Smith, home demonstration agent of Crawford county, will be in charge of recreational work. Vesper services, campfire programs and swimming will be included in the three-day event.

The radio station Monday will not be on the air until 8 p. m. and the complete farm night program follows for 2 hrs: 8 o'clock, music; 8:10, Marion county 4-H club; 8:30, music; 8:40, H. L. Ewing, naturalist, on Ohio's serpent mound; 8:60, "Farm Women Go Camping" by Miss Minnie Price, state home demonstration agent; 9, music in rural life, Miss Kathryn Thompson; 9:15, "Solving North Central Ohio's Erosion Problems" by H. T. Marshall and R. R. Barker of the Mt. Vernon conservation project; 9:25, "Possible Losses in Hay Curing" by R. D. Lewis, crop specialist. 9:35, music; 9:45 to 10, spray talk by T. H. Parks, extension entomologist, and J. H. Boyd, vegetable specialist. Sign off at 10.

Vets Reunion Recalls Deeds Of Valor Of Marion County's Outstanding Hero

C. W. Stafford Won D. S. C. by Capturing Machine Gun Nest.

Without Aid He Took Captives Who Held Up Advance of Troops.

One of the bright pages in the glorious history of the Rainbow division in France was lived by a Marion man whose valor won for him the American Distinguished Service Cross from General John J. Pershing and marked him as Marion county's outstanding World war hero.

He is Sergeant Charles W. "Bob" Stafford of 304 Carner avenue, now a city fireman, who today and Saturday will join his comrades of the Ohio Rainbow Division Veterans association in a reunion here.

Stafford's heroism is recorded in the archives of the war department and in the official records of the Rainbow division.

Single-handed Stafford captured six Germans and a machine gun nest and opened the way for American and French troops to advance toward Sedan, historic frictious point between France and Germany.

Wins Fame for Company

It was Stafford's deed which paved the way for Company D of Marion to win the distinction of being the nearest body of American soldiers to reach Sedan before the Armistice was signed.

Stafford, with the inherent reticence of a soldier to tell of his war experiences, never refers to the record he made for the Rainbow division and the A. E. F.

It was in October of 1918, a month before the Armistice was signed, that Sergeant Stafford and a platoon of 55 men in his charge pushed toward Sedan. The French were in the majority in the main army and Stafford's platoon was taking an offensive stand at the right flank.

The above picture of C. W. "Bob" Stafford, in his World war uniform, was taken shortly after the Armistice.

A hail of bullets poured steadily from a single Hun machine gun nest into the French and American ranks, the only obstacle to the advance. The nest was located in an L-shaped trench, the abandoned end of which extended into the territory in possession of Stafford's platoon.

Stationing his men in comparatively safe positions, although danger was imminent, Stafford worked his way 200 feet along the abandoned trench to the Germans.

Single-Handed Capture

Armed with a pistol he crept up on the six Germans manning the gun and captured the six single handed. The capture silenced the machine gun and opened the way for the French and American soldiers to advance.

Nearly a month later, within a few days of the Armistice, Rainbow history records that Stafford again showed great valor by remaining in the line although under a physical handicap.

Stafford's platoon had advanced farther into German territory at the time of the Armistice than any other body of American soldiers. Known as the "assaulting wave," the platoon soldiers were the first to attack and when the Armistice was signed Stafford and his men were preparing to lead an attack on Sedan.

Official Records

Official records of the Rainbow division have this to say of Stafford:

"On Nov. 5, 1918, he showed great courage and resolution and contributed largely to the success of the attack on the Sedan front by volunteering and leading advanced patrols. His feet were in bad condition and, although ordered, he would not leave his platoon until our battalion was relieved from the front line. He was then ordered to the hospital by medical authorities but returned immediately upon learning that our company was to resume the attack on Sedan. He rejoined the company during the advance of Nov. 6, 1918, and that night patrolled advanced German positions with his platoon and assisted the lieutenant in charge by his unswerving devotion to duty, encouraging the tired and hungry men with words of confidence."

Stafford was 16 years of age when he enlisted in the regular army on June 22, 1916. After a year on the Mexican border he was mustered out of federal service to the national guard, and in July of 1917, was recalled for World war service.

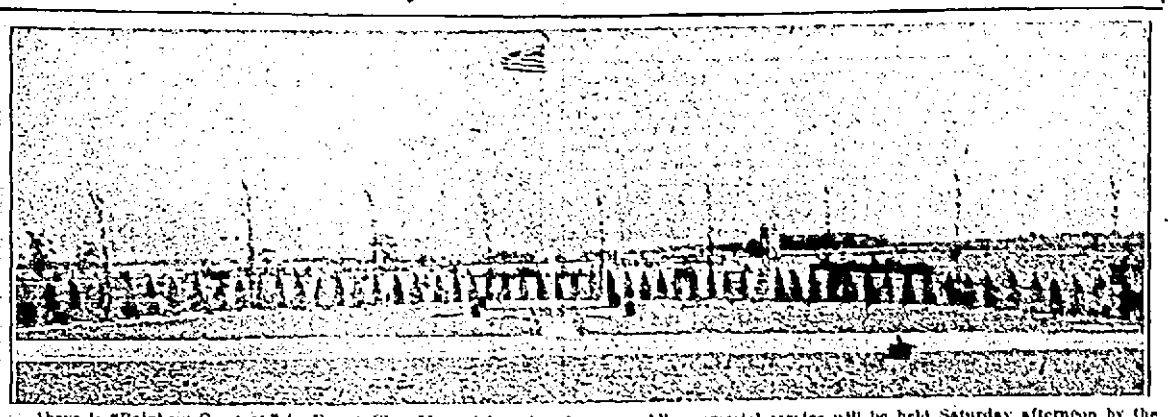
TO HONOR DYER J. BIRD AT RAINBOW CRESCENT



Above is "Rainbow Crescent," in Forest Glen Memorial park, where a public memorial service will be held Saturday afternoon by the Ohio Rainbow Division Veterans' association. In the center of the crescent is a plot dedicated to the memory of Dyer J. Bird of Company D, 166th Infantry of Marion, first Rainbow man to be killed in the World war.

A service which will stand out in the memory of Ohio Rainbow Division veterans gathered here for the eighteenth annual reunion will be the public memorial program Saturday at 2 p. m. at the "Rainbow Crescent" in Forest Glen Memorial park.

It will be significant because the crescent holds a spot dedicated to the memory of Dyer J. Bird, a private in Company D, 166th Infantry of Marion, the first man of the Rainbow division to be killed overseas.

Saturday will be the first time the Rainbow men of Ohio have gathered in a body at the crescent, one of the official Rainbow shrines. Officials in charge of the reunion and convention extended a sincere invitation to the people of Marion and surrounding communities to join with the men in their tribute.

Rev. J. J. Halliday of Delaware, the chaplain who officiated at the burial of Dyer J. Bird in Domjevin, France on March 8, 1918, will deliver the memorial address.

The entire service will hold a host of memories for the Rainbow men: Edwin C. Bird of Milford Center, father of Dyer J. Bird, will be there if it is at all possible; Leland Whitney of Cleveland, formerly of Marion, national Rainbow president who was Bird's first corporal and gave him his first training, was to arrive today for the reunion and to attend the memorial service; Major George T. Geran of Marion, who was captain of Bird's company when he was killed, will introduce Rev. Halliday; a salute will be fired by a squad from Company D, U. S. National Guard of which Captain Hubert L. Taylor is a Rainbow man.

The service will start promptly at 2 and will be broadcast from the cathedral home through the chimes tower. While the veterans and the guest public assemble Mrs. Robert Y. Smith at the organ in the cathedral home will play "The National Emblem," an old regimental march of stirring Rainbow memory.

When the crowd has assembled the music will change to "Beautiful Ohio."

William M. Laughman of Marion, past state president and member-at-large of the state executive committee, chairman of the memorial service committee, will give a brief opening address, after which two wreaths will be placed within the crescent by Carl Thimmes of Akron, state president of the association, and Mrs. H. A. Patterson of Columbus, president of the Rainbow Women of Ohio. As the wreaths are being placed Mrs. Smith will play, "Memories," after which William Drake of Marion will sing "Rose of No Man's Land," a favorite war song of veterans.

Major Geran will give a brief introductory talk in presenting Rev. Halliday.

Following Rev. Halliday's address, Mr. Dowler will sing "Long, Long Trail" and Lawrence Haggard of Columbus, second vice president of the state association, will give the familiar "Memorial to the Unknown Soldier."

The service will close with playing of the national anthem, the salute by the Company D firing squad and taps sounded by a trumpeter from Company D.

"Rainbow Crescent" is one of the beauty spots of the park. The arch of the crescent is formed by Arbor Vitae evergreens, Lombardy poplars and Rose of Sharon and forsythia shrubs. Saturday, the careful planting of the spring season will result in an inner arch of red geraniums and blue and white petunias in a bright splash of national colors against the dark background of the evergreens and shrubs.

ACTUAL WEDDING RITES NOT ON RADIO

American networks did all they could in an effort to provide a direct broadcast of the wedding of the Duke of Windsor in France, but had to confine their activities to routine news broadcasts, The Associated Press reported today. Facilities were not made available in France for such a broadcast.

Tonight: Sen. Robert F. Wagner at 9:45 on WABC-CBS on "The Government and Labor Relations." Tomorrow: Washington & Jefferson commencement at 11 a. m. over WEAF-NBC and WABC-CBS; trans-Atlantic debate at 3 p. m. over WJZ-NBC between Leland Stanford university and Edinburgh, Scotland; 2:30 p. m. over WOR-MBS, the Belmont stakes race.

MOLA'S DEATH STUNS REBELS

AWARDED HIGHEST HONOR

Gen. Davila To Succeed as Head of Forces in Biscayan Bay Region.

By The Associated Press

VITORIA, Spain, June 4—Insurgent Spain was stunned today by the death of Gen. Emilio Mola, Generalissimo Francisco Franco's ablest commander, in the crash of an airplane on the Biscayan front where his tactical genius had brought his armies within sight of besieged Bilbao.

Franco in a special decree posthumously awarded the commander of all the insurgent armies in northern Spain the grand cross of San Fernando, Spain's highest military honor.

Immediately after the death of the 46-year-old "soldiers' general" was known, Franco split his former command.

Succeeded by Davila

Gen. Fidel Davila, head of the technical junta of the insurgent regime, was named commander of the forces operating against Bilbao and on the Biscayan front; the Aragon, the Soria and the Madrid fronts were placed under Gen. Andres Saliquet, who had directed operations against Madrid under Mola.

The same fog which had temporarily held up the advance of Mola's armies caused his death. Two staff officers and two pilots died with him. He left Vitoria yesterday for Valladolid.

Only a young shepherd saw the plane smash into a mountain slope, a few miles from the village of Castin de Peones.

With Mola was his personal adjutant, Lieut. Col. Poza, Staff-Major Senac, Air-Captain Cahorro and Sergeant-Mechanic Barrero.

Military Funeral Today

The bodies were taken to Burgos, about 25 miles southwest of the scene of the tragedy, for a military funeral today.

The bespectacled commander shared with Franco the role of chief hero of insurgent Spain. With the first insurgent militiamen, organized the night the war began, July 18, 1936, he led the march from Pamplona down to the Guadarrama mountains, where he captured the strategic passes to Madrid which his troops still hold.

He was in command of the offensive that reduced Irun and San Sebastian early in the war and was commander of the siege of Madrid except when Franco took personal command for a brief period.

VETERANS' LEADER HOME FOR REUNION

ferred to the Army Candidate's School at Langres. When his class graduated on Nov. 15, 1918, he was among the first third of the class and was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Officers' Reserve Corps. He later served as a first lieutenant in Co. D, 166th Infantry when it was reorganized in the Ohio National Guard after the war.

Mr. Whitney was Dyer J. Bird's first corporal and gave him his first military training. Bird was the Marion veteran who was the first member of the famous Rainbow division killed in the World war.

From Guns to Books

As determined to complete his education as he had been to enlist in the army, he entered Western Reserve university in Cleveland after his discharge from the army, and completed his undergraduate and legal education, graduating with A. B. degree in 1922. He received his LL. B. degree in 1925. He worked his way through the university.

Membership in Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic fraternity was recognition of his distinguished scholarship at the university. He also was a member of Sigma Nu, Delta Sigma Rho and Phi Delta fraternities.

For the last 12 years Mr. Whitney has practiced law in Cleveland and has taken a prominent part in veterans' affairs. Most of the 12 years in the legal profession have been with Miles E. Evans, now service director of the city of Cleveland, and for a time in partnership with Fred H. Zuck, a former Marion resident and son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zuck of 373 Windsor street.

He served as general chairman of the registration committee and trustee for the American Legion 1936 Convention Corporation of Cleveland. He was commander of East Cleveland Post No. 153 of the Legion in 1928-29, and director of public relations for the Department of Ohio in 1934-35.

Mr. Whitney has been a member of the Cleveland Chapter of the Rainbow since 1921 and served as president in 1934-35. In 1935 he was national vice president.

Aside from the Rainbow and the American Legion, his hobbies away from his office are history, swimming and visiting historic spots by automobile.

Mr. Whitney's brother Merlyn R. Whitney, who has been an instructor in the Sandusky High school since 1919 and who has been active in and prominent in Sandusky Masonic circles, was at one time a reporter on The Star staff. A sister, Mrs. Madge W. Siegrist, wife of Louis W. Siegrist, lives in Aurora, O.

11,000 IDLE IN SITDOWN

SCOUT JAMBOREE LIST COMPLETED

Bixler Jr. of troop 25 of Upper Sandusky and Richard Neiderhauser of troop 37 of Nevada. Morrow district—Roy Haines, Richard Sesler, John Geyer, Sato Miller, Norman MacMillin, Dean Breese and Jack Phillips all of troop 27 of Mt. Gilead. Crawford district—Franklin Looker of troop 19, John Gebhardt and James Gebhardt of troop 21, all of Bucyrus.

Leaders Named

Last night's meeting was held at the parish house of St. Paul's Episcopal church for the purpose of acquainting the scouts with their leaders and mapping out plans for the jamboree trip. R. E. Acker of 193 Lake street was selected to serve as first assistant scoutmaster, taking charge of tranportation, equipment, tentage, commissary and sanitation. Karl D. Bechtle of 245 East George street was chosen as second assistant scoutmaster to be in charge of exhibits, displays, campfires and sight seeing.

Mr. Acker is now assistant commissioner for the Marion district comprising the whole of Marion county and as veteran leader has served as assistant scoutmaster and troop committeeman of troop 4, before being appointed commissioner. Bechtle, who has been connected with troop 5 since 1931, has been a member of the staff at Camp John A. Owens for five years. At present he is enrolled as a junior at Ohio State university.

The entire jamboree troop will consist of boys from Marion, Morrow, Wyandot and Crawford districts, which together compose the Harding area. At the meeting last night announcement of the patrol organization was made by Dr. Chapman, with the following scouts serving as officials of their troops: Eagle Scout Richard Acker of troop 4, senior patrol leader; Richard Neiderhauser of troop 37, Nevada, Roy Haines of troop 27, Mt. Gilead, Ralph Howard and Owen Meddles of troop 3, Marion, patrol leaders; and Paul Schwemley of troop 3, Marion, troop scribe.

Meeting of Patrols

Meetings of the patrols will be held next week prior to the four-day training camp for the group at Camp Owens, which starts Sunday, June 13. A final "send-off" campfire will be held Wednesday, June 16, at which time friends and parents will be invited to attend.

During the training camp the scouts will be organized under the setup which they will follow at Washington and will practice setting up their tents and rehearsing their demonstrations and events. The scouts will complete preparations for the merit badge exhibit on insect life which has been assigned to the Harding area council for display in the region No. 4 merit badge exhibit at Washington.

Each patrol is making special patrol flags and decorations for their tents and camp grounds. The group will entrain for Washington on the Pennsylvania railroad at Bucyrus June 28. Announcement was made last night by Arthur S. Brooks, scout executive, that a fifth patrol has been started in which there is still several vacancies for scout desiring to attend the jamboree.

Members of the jamboree committee are C. M. Howser, Frank M. Knapp, Wilbur H. Symes, Don A. Howard, Carl A. Brown, Kenneth Graham, H. L. Wenner and Arthur S. Brooks. Mr. Brooks has been named on the jamboree camp general staff.

MORROW CO. JUDGE TO HEAR VOTE CASE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 4—Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt today assigned Common Pleas Judge Philip H. Wieland of Morrow county to conduct the trial of six persons on ballot tampering charges in Lawrence county June 21.

Judge Wieland originally held invalid a recount which precipitated an investigation disclosing what Secretary of State William J. Kennedy termed "the worst election scandal in Ohio's history."

SHELBY MAN GETS STATE POSITION

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 4—Henry J. Robison, chief of the division of public assistance, announced appointments today of seven persons to supervisory positions at annual salaries ranging from $2,100 to $2,400. Four supervisors have been serving as provisional appointees. They include: Mrs Marian Brucker of Shelby, O.

Interesting Ohio Tours Mapped for Motorists by Auto Club Aid

With the official beginning of summer only a few days away and with vacations already under way, many motorists in Marion and vicinity are beginning to think about the open road and where to go. M. E. Baldwin, secretary of the Marion Auto club who has literally been swamped with requests for information, has worked out a list of several short trips through Ohio, picking out the best roads in each instance.

Mr. Baldwin is of the belief that many persons who get in their cars for a little drive to most anywhere don't know what to look for when they arrive, and consequently miss most of the enjoyment of travel.

For one or two day trips through the Buckeye state from Marion Mr. Baldwin has outlined the following routes:

To Cleveland—Route 30 to Mansfield and Route 42 directly into Cleveland through Ashland, Lodi and Parma Heights, least eventful of the several routes; or, Route 4 north to Ohio 59 northeast of Bellevue into Elyria, then on Route 20 into Cleveland; or, Route 4 to Ohio 59, on 59 to Milan and then Route 299 to Ohio 2 and U. S. 6 at Huron, and from Huron along the lake shore into Cleveland. All the roads now are free of detours.

Exposition at Cleveland

Cleveland is especially interesting at present because of the Great Lakes exposition which opened last week, Mr. Baldwin said. Other spots to look for in Cleveland are Garfield memorial and home, Euclid Beach park, Nela park, Museum of Art in Wade park, Museum of Natural History at 2717 Euclid avenue.

Another interesting trip through one of the most scenic spots in the state is to the Tuscarawas valley near New Philadelphia. Best route, says Mr. Baldwin, is 95 from Marion to Fredericktown, Ohio 13 to Mt. Vernon, U. S. 36 to Coshocton and Newcomerstown and U. S. 21 into New Philadelphia. Within a short distance of that city is Zoar, the first communistic village in the country, on Ohio route 8 to the northeast. Gnaddenhutten memorial may be seen a few miles before reaching New Philadelphia on Route 21. Schoenbrunn, site of the first church and school west of Pittsburgh, is on U. S. 250 a short distance southeast of New Philadelphia. It also claims to be the first settlement in Ohio. Vast flood control projects are also under construction in the area.

The return to Marion may be made on Route 250 to Wooster, then on Route 30 to Mansfield and Marion.

Ohio River Trip

A brief trip along the Ohio river may be made in one day by fast driving, and more leisurely in two days, by taking Route 23 directly to Portsmouth; then to Ironton along the river, then Route 75 to Logan and Route 31 to Columbus and 23 back to Marion. Just off Route 75 on the way to Logan are numerous state parks in Hocking county, including Old Man's cave, Ash Cave, Conkle's Hollow. Route 75 north of Ironton was called by Mr. Baldwin "the most crooked road in Ohio," but it runs through some of the most beautiful country in the state.

Lake Erie is another favorite spot of Ohio drivers. Most usually take Route 4 to Sandusky and from there go either east or west on Ohio 2. A few miles east on 2 is Cedar Point.

To the west, one may drive across Sandusky bay bridge for 25 cents (recently reduced from 50 cents). Mr. Baldwin suggests turning to the right after crossing the bridge and following the lake road around the point to Marblehead and Lakeside. Taking Route 163 west from Marblehead, the motorist can branch off north into the fruit raising section and to the north point where boats may be taken to Catawba Island. If you're in a hurry, stay on Route 163 after leaving Marblehead and drive to Port Clinton, then take Route 2 to Camp Perry where national guardsmen probably will be assembled for summer maneuvers. To return to Marion, go back to Port Clinton, take 53 to Upper Sandusky and 23 into Marion.

Western Ohio Tour

A rather lengthy tour of the western part of the state will take in Lakeview, Russell's Point, Lake St. Mary and Indian Lake, Fort Recovery where St. Clair met his defeat, and Piatt's castles, according to a trip mapped by Mr. Baldwin.

Routes 739 and 47 from Marion to Bellefontaine; Ohio 32 to Indian Lake, Wapakoneta and Celina; Fort Recovery is near the Indiana state line and may be reached by taking 32 from Celina to 49; by continuing south on 49 to Greenville, then taking 36 to Urbana, then 68 north to West Liberty, the motorist will be near Piatt's castles; take 275 out of West Liberty, the first castle will be on 287 just north of the junction with 275, and the second will be on 275 past the junction. To return, follow 275 to Middletown and Marysville, then 4 into Marion. Ohio Caverns are on 275 just past the castle a few miles.

There are no detours on the last tour, but one way traffic is in effect near Indian lake where a retaining wall is being built.

DIZZY'S SUSPENSION IS ORDERED LIFTED

Pitcher Called Back Despite His Refusal To Sign Denials of Controversial Talk.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 4—Despite Dizzy Dean's continued refusal today formally to sign any statement backing up his verbal denials of alleged controversial statements, the suspension of the Cardinal pitching ace was ordered lifted by Ford Frick, president of the National league, effective within 24 hours.

Frick announced lifting of the ban, under which he put Dean two days ago as an outgrowth of purported attacks by the pitcher on the league's chief executive and Umpire George Barr after a chaotic conference at league headquarters.

Dean walked out of the meeting in a rage, at one time, declaring he was "all washed up," then was persuaded to return for another compromise attempt at settlement of the dispute. This consisted of a question and answer parley between Frick and Dean, with the pitcher flatly denying he made the critical statements attributed to him at St Louis and Belleville Ill.

Frick then announced lifting of the suspension, only to have Dean suddenly toss a further wrench into the peace proceedings. The pitcher shouted it was "not over yet," that he would carry an appeal to Commissioner Landis, regardless, and also "see my lawyer."

Duke and Wally Cheered Along Venetian Canal

Romantic Italians Shout Vivas as Newlyweds Speed to Honeymoon Castle.

By The Associated Press

VENICE, Italy, June 4 — The Duke and Duchess of Windsor rode down the grand canal of this Italian honeymoon "Niagara" today to the cheers of romantic Venetians.

The new family Windsor, speeding by train from their chateau de Cande wedding to the "haunted" Austrian honeymoon castle of Wasserleonburg, near Noetsch, alighted from their special car and entered a motor launch for the canal ride.

They took the "between trains" excursion as the guests of British consul Allen Napier, who met them. They had three hours until the next train for Austria.

The duke seemed comfortably domesticated.

Edward waved his hat to a throng of applauding folk which had gathered at the station. The duchess waved her hand.

"Vivas" and fluttering handkerchiefs came from the people on the bank of the canal.

At Milan, a throng of tourists—mostly American women with a scattering of English travelers—shouted a refrain of "Wally! Wally!" until Edward came to the window, waved, and then brought his bride to his side. It was the newlyweds' first appearance after boarding the train.

The duke and his blue-eyed duchess boarded the express at Laroche-Migennes, France, a few minutes after midnight in a flurry of excitement and under the watchful eyes of policemen and detectives after a hurried motor trip from the Touraine chateau where they were married.

The Daily Express, with an oblique reference to the Church of England's refusal to recognize the blessing bestowed on the wedding by Rev. R. Anderson Jardine, "poor man's parson," who defied his bishops to marry them, expressed assurance they had the good wishes of a multitude of Englishmen who "have no intention—and perhaps no great prospect—of learning their Christian charity from bishops."

Meanwhile in Paris Rev. Jardine was accused of "invading" the province of another bishop without authority of his superiors.

As a result, the Anglican church "takes no cognizance" of the religious ceremony yesterday uniting the duke and the former Mrs. Warfield, asserted Rev. Prebendary F. Anstruther Cardew, the church's rural dean for France.

STEEL STRIKE CHIEF WILL MEET DAVEY

nounced in conjunction with a meeting of key leaders along the Buffalo-Chicago strike front which has made at least 72,000 men idle, that a campaign would be started for members in Minnesota and Michigan ore fields of the three concerns.

It is in these states that Republic's northern mines are centered. The Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. and Inland Steel Corp., other major independents who have constantly refused to sign union contracts, are making no attempt to operate their sprawling mills in the nine-day-old strike.

Davey Decides To Confer

Decision of Gov. Martin L. Davey to confer with Murray, director of strike activities in the greatest test of the SWOC's year-old organization drive, was disclosed in Columbus by John Owens, Ohio director of the CIO.

While Davey declined comment on a two-hour discussin with Owens, close advisors to the governor said he had taken a firm neutral stand in the controversy and that his main objective was to restore peace to the troubled northeastern Ohio steel area, where some 47,000 are idle.

Gov. Davey's conference followed secret executive mansion parleys with Girdler and J. C. Argetsinger, Sheet & Tube vice president. The governor was understood to be insistent on only one point: That both sides guard against anything which would precipitate a general outbreak of violence. Two more Ohio national guard observers were sent to strike points, bringing the total to eight.

War of Words

Skirmishing was confined chiefly to statements and counter-statements as Republic, focal point of the strike through operation of picketed plants in Buffalo, Chicago, Warren, Niles and Canton, O., offered a $1,000 reward for arrest and conviction of persons sniping at its planes carrying food to the Warren and Niles mills. More than 100 shots were fired at them yesterday, a Republic spokesman said.

Republic sources asserted the danger of a food shortage at the Niles plant had passed temporarily with the improvement in flying conditions permitting planes running the blockade to skim low over the mill and drop bundles of provisions.

Frank E. Flynn, Republic plant manager at Warren, had expressed concern that the supply in the Niles plant might be "running close."

The steel union sought at Cleveland—take-off point for at least part of Republic's food planes—a way to enforce its "strike or starve" blockade at Niles and Warren.

Samuel Handelman, Cleveland SWOC attorney said he sent a telegram to the federal bureau of air navigation at Washington charging Republic was using unlicensed planes.

MARION WELCOMES RAINBOW VETERANS

given an envelope containing tickets for banquets, the Harding home and museum, and for a trip through the Marion Steam Shovel Co.

Program for Today

The program for today called for visiting the Harding home and museum this morning at 10, a trip through the Marion Steam Shovel Co. at 2 p. m., a banquet and short program tonight in Hotel Harding ballroom, and a reunion dance at 9 p. m. in the Eagles hall. Dr. Carroll Ritchey, Marion magician, and Ed Sharpless, Marion ventriloquist, will be on the banquet program, and Landon's Hawaiians are on the program for the dance.

Saturday's activities will include separate business meetings of the association and auxiliary at Hotel Harding, at 10 a. m. a memorial service at Forest Glen Memorial park at 2 p. m. in which tribute will be paid especially to the memory of Dyer J. Bird, first Rainbow veteran killed in the World war, a joint banquet of the association and auxiliary at 6 p. m. in the Masonic temple at which the Gravello troupe of entertainers from Bucyrus and Mrs. Goldie Swope and her entertainers of Marion will appear on the program, and a 9 o'clock dance and entertainment at the Elks lodge room with Bob McMahan's orchestra furnishing the music. Mrs. Swope's group and the Gravelle entertainers also will appear at the dance. The public is invited to take part in the memorial service at Forest Glen Memorial park.

Edwin C. Bird of Milford Center, father of Dyer J. Bird, has been given a special invitation to attend the Saturday memorial service, in company with E. L. Holliday of Springfield, former Marion man who was with Bird at the time he was killed in action.

Gold Star Mothers Invited

Gold Star mothers from this vicinity have been especially urged to attend the memorial service and be guests of the association at the banquet Saturday night.

Officers of the association and auxiliary will be elected at the 10 a. m. session Saturday.

At least three Ohio sheriffs were expected to attend convention sessions. One is Sheriff Fred Miller of Marion, another is William Belhorn of Lancaster, sheriff of Fairfield county and president of the association when it held its annual reunion here in 1926, and Sheriff Harry Weatherholtz of Wyandot county.

Records of the association show Rainbow veterans live in at least 120 different Ohio communities.

SEVEN DIE AS FIRE SWEEPS OVER BUS

By The Associated Press

MOUNT SHASTA, Calif., June 4 — A bus driver and six passengers were burned to death early today when the vehicle overturned and caught fire near Shiloah.

The bus was demolished. Its driver was Al Wilson, Enrollee at CCC Camp Symes rushed to the burning machine and poured water on the flames.

SWIMMERS WARNED RIVERS ARE UNSAFE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 4—Dr. W. H. Hartung, state health director, warned today that nearly every river and stream in Ohio was polluted to such an extent that swimmers, and in some instances fishermen, were exposing themselves to disease.

"The only way in which swimmers can be safe is to use any of the numerous public and private pools in the state," Dr. Hartung said.

AMELIA TAKES OFF FOR BRAZIL PORT

By The Associated Press

PARAMARIBO, Dutch Guiana, June 4—Amelia Earhart took off from here at 5:10 a. m., eastern standard time, today on the fourth leg of her round-the-world flight.

Pan American Airways, over whose route she has been flying since leaving Miami, Fla., reported that Miss Earhart was headed for Belem, in Brazil at the mouth of the Amazon river, a distance of about 820 miles from here.

The airway report added that she might try to reach Fortaleza, Brazil, today for a hop of 1,626 miles. She will fly more than 200 miles over water crossing the mouth of the Amazon.

ROOSEVELT WANTS COURT REFORM NOW

projects, and the securities commission case.

He did not mention the fourth case specifically. He did say, however, the court had made no suggestion for remedying the situation which he said was preventing the government from prosecuting the Aluminum Co. anti-trust suit.

In this connection he said the supreme court had been always looked on as a father of the lower courts, yet in the Aluminum Co. case, in which the government was enjoined in the lower courts from pressing its suit in any jurisdiction outside of western Pennsylvania, the government was receiving no help.

While the capital hummed with discussion of this development in the nationwide dispute over the measure, Secretary Perkins told congressmen studying the administration's wage and hour bill that she favored letting a board set minimum wages industry by industry.

Congressmen had talked of including a $16 a week minimum for all industry in their definition of "oppressive" labor conditions.

The President's program for setting up seven regional planning bodies like the Tennessee valley authority was offered in different versions in house and senate.

Sen. Norris, Independent of Nebraska, and Rep. Mansfield, Democrat of Texas, each contended his recommendation filled the President's demands. Mansfield wanted power and planning functions separated.

Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, sought to answer the opposition voiced by Senator Van Nuys, Democrat of Indiana, to giving the administration a lump sum to spend on relief.

FORMER DELAWARE JUDGE WEDS HERE

Mrs. Nova Irvine Is Bride of J. M Schaffner.

Jacob M. Schaffner of near Delaware, former probate judge of Delaware county, and Mrs. Nova E. Irvine of 335 Pearl street were united in marriage yesterday at 10:30 a. m. at the First United Brethren church parsonage on South Prospect street. Rev. Carl V. LEUTHOLD SUIT IN SECOND DAY

Testimony Heard in Trial of $10,000 Electric Shock Damage Action.

[illegible] the $10,000 damage suit [illegible] Leuthold of near Bucyrus [illegible] the Central Utilities [illegible] a part of the Marion-Reserve Power Co., went into its [illegible] before Judge Hector S. [illegible] a common pleas court. [illegible] The plaintiff is suing [illegible] suffered in January of [illegible] during a storm he was [illegible] while grasping a lamp [illegible] home.

He charges the company's poles [illegible] and that high tension [illegible] crossed with the house [illegible] Witnesses said there was [illegible] house current after [illegible] down.

Brother Testifies

[illegible] this morning were [illegible] Leuthold, a brother, who de- [illegible] saw the plaintiff was [illegible] thrown to the floor; [illegible] Ingalls of Bucyrus, elec- [illegible] worker called by the Leuthold [illegible] examine the wiring after [illegible] who displayed burned [illegible] the house and barn; [illegible] Brinkman of Bucyrus, a [illegible]

[illegible] plaintiff had not introduced [illegible] at noon today to show [illegible] injuries were and had not [illegible] himself.

Testifying yesterday were Chester [illegible] and Harold Grigsby, [illegible] of the Marion-Reserve Power Co., who described the [illegible] of the Central Utilities [illegible] the new corporation and [illegible] explained the different voltages [illegible] through the wires [illegible] Leuthold home.

[illegible] Miller of near Bucyrus, [illegible] operates a sawmill next to the Leuthold home, said the poles were not in a dangerous condition and that any pole might have been blown down during the storm. He also stated Walton Leuthold worked for him in June following the accident doing log "skidding" or hauling with a tractor. He said he had often seen the plaintiff working in the fields after the accident.

Attorney Rebuked

During the questioning of Mr. Miller and other witnesses Attorney A. S. Leuthold was rebuked several times by Judge Young for asking leading questions contrary to court procedure, and also for too vigorous questioning of his own witnesses.

Hazel Leuthold, relative of the plaintiff, who was present when the accident occurred, told of how it happened in minute detail. Since all the house current was gone and the accident happened late in the day, Attorney Strelitz asked her how she was able to observe all the detail without electric lights. She said here was a candle in the room.

James Rank of near Bucyrus told of a trip to California he had made with Walton several months after the accident.

Charles Gallinger of Bucyrus is assisting Mr. Leuthold as attorney. J. M. Strelitz and H. L. Dowler of the firm of Guthery, Strelitz and Guthery are handling the defense. The trial is expected to continue tomorrow.

Loss Of Diz Hurts Cards' Hopes

DEAN'S ABSENCE MAY MAKE ST. LOUIS UP TO 20 GAMES WEAKER

Cleveland Evens Series With Yanks With 6-1 Decision Over Gomez.

BY SID FEDER

The boys along the baseball lanes were picking a nice, quiet second division berth for the Dean-less St. Louis Cardinals today.

The talk that wasn't given over to Dean doings, however, was devoted to the work of another pitcher, Lon Fette, who's been making himself the surprise package of the Boston Bees and the best National League rookie crop hurler their great "popper-upper" whether he's right or wrong in his row with Ford Frick, the Cards are anywhere up to 20 games weaker, depending on how Fette is going to be on the outside corner in.

The Bees and the Dodgers therefore may fight it out for the fourth spot in the final National League standings—the Dodgers, because Burgess Whitehead has given them a shot of dynamite, and the Bees, simply because of Fette.

A lot of baseball men laughed when Bill McKechnie sat down at his desk last winter and signed a flock of rookie "old men" for his Boston Bees.

Bill proved about as foolish as a Kiwanian. For the rest of the season is kicking itself now over at least one of Boston's rookie veterans—Fette. This "youngster" is 30 years old, and for the last five years has been doing a workmanlike act with considerable success for St. Paul of the American Association.

The only club in the league to trip Fette so far is Pittsburgh, racing him out 4-1 early in the season. Yesterday was revenge day for Fette in a big way, as he handed the league-leading Bucs their first shutout of the year, 6-0.

The other major league action yesterday didn't create as much stir as a leaf in a breeze. Only two games got by the rain altogether.

Cleveland's Indians evened their series with the New York Yankees by taking a free-swinging 6-2 decision from Lefty Gomez.

The Tigers kicked away enough chances to win three games and lost to the Senators 5-4. The White Sox took over third place from the Tigers in the American League by walloping the Boston Red Sox 12-4.

Harder Outpitches Gomez To Aid Tribe

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 4 — Cleveland's second-place Indians, heartened by their 6-2 victory yesterday over the nemesis New York Yankees, counted their chances today of slashing the league leaders' margin to only two games.

It was Mel Harder who outpitched the eccentric Vernon Gomez to square the three-game series at one apiece. For the third straight day, young Spurgeon Chandler was expected to oppose the Indians today and for the second straight time Johnny Allen was Cleveland's scheduled starter.

COLUMBUS WALLOPS KANSAS CITY, 13-2; HENS BEAT BREWERS

Milwaukee Suffers Eleventh Straight Defeat; Millers Trim Indianapolis.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 4 — The clubs which finished at the top and the bottom of last year's American association race are supplying most of the fireworks for this season's pennant drive.

The champion Milwaukee Brewers, because of winter deals which took several stars, were not expected to set the early season pace they did; neither was the Toledo club expected to be challenging for the circuit lead at this or any other time of the campaign.

Yet Toledo defeated the Brewers 5 to 3 yesterday, and it was Milwaukee's eleventh straight setback. The Mud Hens won their 24th game in 43 starts on two unearned runs which crossed the plate when Hope threw into left field on what looked like a double play ball.

The defeat gave Milwaukee a record of 23 won and 15 lost for a .561 percentage, only three points ahead of the Toledo aggregation.

Minneapolis kept on the heels of Toledo and Milwaukee, winning 10 to 8 from Indianapolis, a six-run splurge in the third inning brought the Millers from behind after the Tribe had scored four runs in their half of the frame.

St. Paul hammered the ball for 13 safeties in taking a 3-1 decision from Louisville. It was Babe Phelps' second win of the year and was achieved at the expense of Walter Signer.

In the only night game, Columbus defeated Kansas City 13 to 2 behind four hit pitching by Max Macon, who won his tenth game of the season.

IT'S ODD
But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE,
Associated Press Science Editor

PASADENA, Cal. — The firefly's flash is a signal to other fireflys reading—"come up and see me sometime."

The meaning might be overlooked by anyone watching just a few fireflies. But it was clear when clusters of thousands were studied in Jamaica by the Johns Hopkins university botanical expedition as reported by John B. Buck.

Light attracted these fireflies. A flashlight beam would bring a small crowd of them together. Afterward the light of this little knot of flies alone attracted others until there were enormous crowds. In the crowds there was always quite a bit of mating.

(From the J. H. Galbraith collection of Ohio histories, written for The Associated Press.)

CONFERENCE WITH INDIANS

June 21, 1813, was a momentous and exciting day in the history of Franklinton, the original village upon the site of the present Columbus. The war of 1812 was on, and the attitude of the independent Indian tribes lying to the north of Franklinton was a matter of major importance.

Gen. Harrison arranged a conference with the chiefs of these tribes. Settlers from northwest settlements came down to watch the trend of matters, for if the Indians should not prove friendly it would be necessary for them to move their families to some strong military center for safety. The Indians, however, readily agreed to preserve friendly relations.

DEAN PLANS APPEAL TO LANDIS; THREATENS SUIT

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 4—"Old Diz" and Ford Frick were still at swords' points today with the St. Louis Cardinals' ace right-hander threatening all kinds of action against the National League in general and its youthful president in particular.

Standing pat on his refusal to sign an apology for a series of alleged statements against Frick, Umpire George Barr, and the league, Jerome Herman Dean declared he would carry his case to Commissioner K. M. Landis and then, if necessary, "sue Frick and the National League for plenty—at least $250,000—for depriving me of my job."

Outside of appealing to Landis for hearing, after a 10-day interval, Dean had only one other recourse. That was to change his mind and sign a formal disavowal of his alleged statements, which included, among other things, the calling of Frick and Barr "the biggest crooks in the National league" at a fathers and sons banquet in Belleville, Ill., May 23.

This is exactly what Dizzy refused to do yesterday after a two-hour conference with Frick, Manager Frankie Frisch of the Cards and the club's secretary, Clarence Lloyd.

"The next move is up to Dizzy," said Frick.

Social Affairs

THE season's series of weekly "ladies day" parties at the Marion Country club was launched yesterday when 30 of the women members met for a morning of golf, luncheon and bridge in the afternoon. Awards in golf, which began at 10 o'clock, were won by Mrs. Carl Dannner, Mrs. W. A. Dennis, Mrs. T. L. Fahey, Mrs. K. M. Bower, Mrs. Philip Guthery, Mrs. Robert LaMarche and Mrs. Robert F. Smith. Honors for high score in bridge were won by Mrs. George B. Alber and Mrs. John Smith.

Acting hostesses were Mrs. Robert LaMarche, chairman, Mrs. Floyd Yeager, Mrs. Karl Holly, Mrs. R. H. Knecht, Mrs. E. W. Wood and Mrs. Robert F. Smith.

As in former seasons the weekly parties will be held on Thursday.

MISS JAYNETTE VAUGHAN, whose marriage to George Maaske of Madison, Wis., will take place on June 19 at Epworth M. E. church, was guest of honor when her fellow faculty members of the Olney Avenue school gave a luncheon at noon today at Ringer's Inn on the Prospect road.

Place favors were miniature brides, and the flowers and candles were in pastel shades. Miss Vaughan was presented a gift from the group, found when she pieced together a jig-saw puzzle which was a verse directing her to the place where the gift was hidden.

Places were laid for Miss Vaughan, Miss Luella Scholl, principal, Miss Lucille Fenner, Miss Bertha Thomas, Miss Zelda Terry, Miss Helen Holdridge, Miss Ruth Powell and Miss Robina Nichols.

MISS KATHRYN BURKE of 1153 East Church street entertained at bridge last evening as a pre-nuptial courtesy to Miss Margaret Hoover, a bride-elect of this month. The honor guest was presented a gift from the hostess, and also won first honors at cards. Miss Hoover will be married Thursday, June 17, to Carman Cox of Hamilton, in St. Mary Catholic church.

Mrs. Rosa Riley was elected president at a meeting of the Sunbeam Embroidery club yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carl Drollinger on Buckeye street. The hostess was elected vice president, Mrs. Don Pierce, secretary, and Mrs. Walter Bonsell, treasurer. Mrs. Thornton Lynch was named flower fund treasurer. Euchre was played. An award for cards and a guessing box prize were won by Mrs. Lynch. Mrs. Walter Bonsell of Congress street will entertain the club in two weeks.

Mrs. Wayne Murray of 136 East Fairground street entertained with a kitchen shower last evening for the pleasure of Miss Catherine Wederitz whose marriage to Forest Conklin will take place June 20. Appointments for the party were in the bride-elect's wedding colors of blue and pink. Bridge was played, awards going to Mrs. Marie Burke and Miss Lucille Coffey. Guests included Miss Wederitz, Mrs. Charles Way, Mrs. E. V. Shoup, Misses Lois and Ruth Hall, Miss Hazel Kidd, Mrs. Paul Rudolph, Mrs. Burke, Miss Grace Price and Miss Coffey.

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Marian M. Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rogers of Sheridan road, and Thomas E. Reed Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Reed of South Prospect street, which took place Dec. 27, 1936, at Lima. The single ring ceremony was read by Rev. E. W. Bloomquist, pastor of the First Baptist church, and the attendants were Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Reed of Lima, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom. The bride was graduated from Harding High school in 1936. Mr. Reed is a machinist with the Osgood company.

A program was presented at a meeting of the Berean Bible class of Calvary Evangelical Sunday school, last evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Corwin of 342 South Prospect street. About 60 attended. Mrs. John Ruth and Mrs. Harvey Klinefelter offered prayer, and the Bible study was presented by Mrs. C. R. Beerbower. Misses Olga May Obenour and Helen Cottrell entertained with solos on the Hawaiian guitar, and recitations were given by Ruth Elder Corwin, Phyllis Ann Corwin and Marian Cowan. A missionary program was on "Africa," and was in charge of Mrs. Ruth Hinnaman, and a play, "A Diamond in the Rough," was presented by Mrs. Elsie Feaver, Mrs. Grace Smithson, Mrs. Olive Crizer, Mrs. Ivan Howard and Mrs. Valeria Haughn. Guests were Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Heininger, Mrs. Harry Zink, Mrs. D. S. Jobe, Miss Olga May Obenour and Miss Helen Cottrell. The hostess was assisted in serving a lunch by Mrs. Harvey Klinefelter, Mrs. Harry Crowner and Mrs. Mildred Roecker. Spring flowers carried out a decorative note. The next meeting will be July 1.

The annual guest day party of the Thrifty Stitchers club was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ethyl Hickok of near Prospect. Songs opening the program were followed by recitations by John Wendell Watkins, Donald Hickok and Marjory Behrens. Mrs. Mary Graham conducted devotions. A program consisted of a reading by Mrs. Henrietta Jacobs, piano numbers by Twila Kyle, a poem by Mrs. Herbert Simmons, a vocal duet by Mrs. Evelyn Kyle and Mrs. P. Poor, a story by Mrs. Hazel Griffith and a poem by Mrs. Bernice Ackley. Contest honors went to Mrs. John Lawrence, Mrs. Evelyn Buckingham, Mrs. Marie Grate and Mrs. Griffith. A guessing box was won by Miss Pauline Warner. Refreshments were served to more than 30 members and guests. The club will have a picnic in July.

Officers of the Woman's Home Missionary society of Wesley M. E. church, headed by the president, Mrs. James Barkley, were reelected at a meeting yesterday afternoon with Mrs. C. G. Roberts of Orchard street. Mrs. A. W. Leonhardt conducted the opening devotional service. A program in charge of Mrs. Cora Daymude included a resume of the year's work by officers of the society and a playlet, "One Way Up in Racial Understanding," presented by Mrs. Homer Moehn, Mrs. Stanley W. Want, Mrs. Theodore Moler and Mrs. Marvin Evans. Refreshments were served in a social hour by Mrs. Roberts, assisted by a committee composed of Mrs. C. E. Hornby, Mrs. Glen Price and Mrs. Ralph Good.

Miss Margaret Jack and Glenn Good, who will be married Sunday, were complimented with a kitchen shower Wednesday evening by members of the A. S. E. Dramatic club of Epworth M. E. church at the home of Mrs. Edgar Haberman of North Main street. Mrs. Haberman and Mrs. R. W. Kauble were hostesses. Guests in addition to the members were Miss Lena Dale Mulvaine of LaRue, Miss Mildred Solenberger of Dayton, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Jack, parents of the bride-to-be, and Nancy, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ruhlman. Spider webs in the bride's colors of pink, blue and yellow led Miss Jack and Mr. Good to their gifts. Mrs. Jack and Mrs. Kauble presided at the refreshments table, which was decorated in the wedding colors and centered with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

A birthday party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Barkley of the Upper Sandusky road last evening was in honor of their son Carl. The evening was spent socially. Present with the celebrant were Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Wolfinger, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Snider, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Klingel and son Charles, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Williams, Mrs. Henry Seckle and children Paul, Frances and Delma, Misses Callie Myers, Thelma Hilbold, Eleanor Snyder, Evelyn Converse, Eva Belle Schwaderer and Dorothy Gompf, George Peterson, James Henry, Audrey and Elwyn Kenneth Williams.

Cahill - Perry Wedding Read This Morning

MISS MARY LOUISE CAHILL, daughter of City Councilman and Mrs. H. D. Cahill of 602 Mary street, became the bride of Claude Perry of Pittsburgh, this morning at 10 o'clock, at Trinity Baptist church. Open church was observed for the single ring service read by the pastor, Rev. Lawrence A. Wood.

Baskets of peonies and summer foliage were the only decorations used in the church, and music for the ceremony was played by Mrs. Cecil Davis, organist. She played a program of nuptial music and the wedding marches.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Martha McKeever. Richard Wright of Marion was Mr. Perry's best man. Miss Cahill chose for her wedding a street costume of brown marquisette in a redingote style and embroidered in white. Her accessories were in white and she wore a corsage of yellow roses on her shoulder. Her attendant wore a white knitted suit with white accessories.

Following the ceremony there was a wedding breakfast for the bridal party and immediate families at Mrs. Crum's tearoom on John street. Later Mr. and Mrs. Perry left on a wedding trip, and after June 11 will be at home in Pittsburgh.

The bride was graduated from Harding High school in 19[illegible] until recently was employed at the Columbus office. I USED TO THINK HOME MADE ROLLS A BOTHER TO MAKE, BUT THESE MADE WITH Spry ARE SO EASY — TRY THEM!
AND THEY ARE THEY GOOD!
ALWAYS USE Spry FOR CAKES OR PIE
ALWAYS USE Spry WHENEVER YOU FRY
Spry FRIED FOODS—YOU CAN'T BEAT 'EM
SO CRISP AND LIGHT—A CHILD CAN EAT 'EM

ELSIE'S EASY ROLLS
2 compressed yeast cakes; ¼ cup lukewarm water; 1 teaspoon sugar; ¾ cup Spry; 2 teaspoons salt; 2 tablespoons sugar; 1 cup scalded milk; ½ cup water; 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
Crumble yeast into small bowl. Add lukewarm water and sugar and set in warm place until light and spongy (about 15 minutes). Combine Spry, salt and sugar in large bowl and add scalded milk and water. Stir until Spry is melted and cool until lukewarm. Add yeast mixture and mix.
Add flour gradually, mixing thoroughly. Cover and let rise in warm place for 1 hour, or until light and spongy. Stir down and let rise again until very light (about ¾ hour). Drop dough from spoon into muffin pans greased with Spry. Let rise in warm place until double in bulk (about 15 minutes). Bake in very hot oven (450° F.) 15 minutes. Makes 2 dozen. Notice how extra light and tender these rolls are, made with Spry! How beautifully they brown, too.
After putting the first dozen rolls into the muffin pans, stir the dough down and let rise while first rolls are baking.
(All measurements in this recipe are level)
In 3-lb. and 1-lb. cans
MAKE these delicious Rolls today. See how light, tender, fine flavored. And so easy — no kneading required, ready in half the usual time.
But remember, only Spry can give perfect results in this recipe! For Spry is different from any other shortening — purer, whiter, smoother, so much creamier you can mix a cake in half the time.
Spry makes all baked and fried foods doubly delicious. Cakes are lighter, pastry flakier, fried foods crisper and as easy to digest as if baked. Get Spry today. Save money — buy the 3-lb. can. Stays fresh and sweet always, right on the pantry shelf.

Our Guests Of Honor.

Marion always experiences a feeling of pride and pleasure from being selected as the convention city of any worthwhile organization and has enjoyed that privilege on numerous occasions. Today the city has especial reason to be proud, for it is honored by the presence of Ohio veterans of the Rainbow division, men who brought notable distinction to themselves, the nation and their state during the World war.

Having this group as the city's guests tends to carry us back to the days of 20 years ago, when these same men and many thousands of others responded to the call for service to their country and later performed that service with valor and efficiency which again proved the unquestioned superiority of American soldiery.

Their visit here also tends to stir anew the spirit of patriotic enthusiasm which was so prevalent during that 20-year-ago period of marching men and martial music. A revival of that spirit is beneficial and desirable, not for the purpose of promoting militancy or glorifying war, but to keep alive loyalty to country and devotion to its great democratic principles.

Such organizations as the Rainbow Veterans' association serve that purpose. Although its members fought for their country when duty called, they are not advocates of war, for they know war from personal experience and would not by word or act encourage any move that might force the youth of today to go through hazards and horrors like those into which the boys and young men of 20 years ago were cast. But these veterans of history's greatest armed conflict are staunch advocates of patriotism and Americanism and in that role they rightfully occupy top rank. They have stood the acid test of devotion to country and as a consequence their views on what needs to be done to safeguard the nation and its guarantee of human rights are of tremendous value and influence.

So Marion welcomes and honors the Rainbow veterans for their service to the country in time of war and for the important place they occupy in time of peace. The example set by them and their companions in arms 20 years ago made all of us better Americans and by keeping their organizations active they are continuing the good work. We know that here in Marion their visit will serve as a patriotic stimulant and remind us to be constantly appreciative of our good fortune in being American citizens and to be alert in preserving the structure which makes that good fortune possible.

Commencement.

Congratulations and best wishes to the 243 Harding High school seniors who will receive diplomas tonight as the culmination of their 12 years in the public schools.

That message is printed here as coming from all residents of Marion, for certainly it expresses the sentiment of the entire community. The congratulations are for successful completion of a very important part of life's structure, an educational foundation. With that well and firmly laid, every one of these 243 young people are in position to go ahead with the building until finally the topmost piece can truthfully be marked with the words "Success and Happiness." Probably one or the other of these words is superfluous, for both are in the main synonomous.

The best wishes are a natural expression of the feeling of good will and interest which virtually everybody has for young people. Only the extremely sour and twisted human mind could view youth in any other way. These 243 boys and girls of Harding High school start out in life with the assurance that no hand is against them, but that much to the contrary they will find most people friendly, and ready and willing to help, if possible.

Doubtless the same situation will not always exist, for competition often stirs up the opposite of friendliness, and most of these young people are certain to find their way into competitive activities. But now the path is clear and it is fortunate that human affairs are designed that way. Thus youth is able to get away to a good start and through careful preparation have no difficulty in surmounting the obstacles likely to be encountered later.

On Wheels.

A Los Angeles bank had an idea. Many of its customers used automobiles to travel to and from the bank. But to transact their business at the teller's window, they had to park their cars, walk to the bank from a parking place and walk back.

The bank, therefore, established a teller's window in an adjacent garage. Customers on wheels now drive up to the window, do their banking business from their automobiles and drive away. At least one phase of the parking problem has been solved for such customers.

The idea's not new; some department stores have been using it successfully, with store garages. Refreshment stands and even a few open air movie theaters have solved the parking problem by making it possible for patrons to remain in their automobiles, if they choose.

The time is coming more rapidly than pessimists can see when a civilization on wheels will take steps to bridge the gap between the too small and too elusive parking place and the motorist's destination.

The Budget Still Won't Balance

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1937, by The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, June 4—Just how much actual tax money is involved in President Roosevelt's campaign against so-called evasion or avoidance of income taxes?

The President said in his message to congress that the money was needed to balance the budget and it might be inferred that he meant that enough money could be obtained from those who were unethically or otherwise avoiding federal taxes and that these recovered sums would go a long way toward balancing income and outgo these days.

But what are the facts?

The latest figures derived from the officially published data of the bureau of internal revenue show that all persons with a net income of more than $100,000 a year had in the year 1935 a net income of $568,370,000.

The net income was derived by subtracting a total of $132,140,000 of "deductions" from their gross income of $650,510,000. Assuming that these rich people had no right to any of these deductions and assuming also that they would continue year after year to work if they had 100 per cent of their income confiscated, it still would give the federal government only $436,906,000 more than is now being obtained in taxes from that group. They are already paying $243,604,000, or about 42 per cent of their net income in taxes.

*Certainly $436,906,000 would hardly bal*ance the budget. For the last four years, the deficits have averaged around $3,000,000,000 or more, and in the present fiscal year the deficit will be above $2,500,000,000. It would be fantastic to suppose that 100 per cent of the net income could be confiscated, so a better way to calculate just how much is embraced in the President's campaign is to assume that, as he indicates, most of the taxpayers are honest and that a small percentage are trying various methods of evasion and avoidance. If 10 per cent are dishonest and 90 per cent are honest, this would mean that, by adding one-tenth more to the gross income of the group above $100,000 a year, about $68,051,000 of income is actually involved.

Investigation for $31,600,000

The average tax rate in these brackets is 42 per cent, but if we use a 50 per cent figure, it would mean that half of $68,051,000, or about $34,025,500, is the sum to obtain which the President has decided that a congressional investigation should be begun.

If the same method of calculation is applied to incomes of $50,000 a year or over an additional $65,000,000 would be at stake.

It is conceded in the President's message that some of the methods used to avoid taxes are legal. Likewise, when the congressional investigation is under way, it will be discovered that many of the so-called tax avoidances have been going on for several years under every tax law that has ever been written. What the administration confesses is not that it lacks the ingenuity of the tax avoiders, but that laws cannot be written which will be so all-inclusive on the one hand as to get in all the tax money, and yet, on the other hand, will not create hardships to smaller taxpayers at the same time. For laws have to be written in general terms, and classifications for tax purposes cannot, under the spirit of the constitution, be arbitrary, though, to be sure, tax rates can be very high and burdensome and yet be legal.

What then is the purpose of the congressional investigation? It is not altogether to get new legislation, because legal "loopholes" have been blocked before and still there are some who avoid taxes. The aggregate avoidance in dollars is too small compared with the total tax return to warrant the kind of campaign that has been undertaken. The only alternative purpose is that, being unable by legal means to collect the taxes, the administration now seeks to attack the rich and the thrifty, hoping that, by unfavorable publicity, they will be shamed into paying more taxes than they legally are supposed to pay. This becomes part and parcel of the class warfare which has been waged by President Roosevelt as a primary part of his campaign for popular favor with the masses ever since he became a candidate for the presidency. Mr. Roosevelt's theory is that the masses will accept these antagonisms and hold them only as a basis for proper legislative correction. Unfortunately, the President has never given much consideration to the effects of a war of hates and class antagonism on the future peace and stability of the United States. Such outbursts as are occurring in the labor situation today, for example, are regarded by him as merely the growing pains of labor with its new-found powers of collective bargaining.

May Prove Boomerang

In the final analysis, the controversy over tax evasion may prove a boomerang against the administration. When the facts come out, as they should, the public will want to know why the administration for the last four years has not been collecting taxes from the obviously illegal evaders and why it has not before this recommended legislation to curb the tax avoiders. The practices have been known to the treasury for years and the present administration has been claiming it has been plugging "leaks." If the loopholes can't be plugged by law, it might be a dangerous thing to start the custom of trying to stop avoidance of taxes through the simple process of publicity. This form of attack would be a kind of extortion which, in private life, is customarily called blackmail.

Unless the treasury will be able to prove conclusively that all the cases of tax avoidance have come within the law, the administration will, by congressional inquiry, convict itself of having known about tax evasion and failed to punish the guilty.

If the inquiry proves that all the *cases of avoidance have been legal, then the ques*tion arises what remedies of a legislative character can be devised to stop the avoidance, and, when it comes to drawing a law affecting all taxpayers, the whole system of income tax laws will have to be revised.

If the "spirit of the law" is to be the new standard of ethics and patriotism, then all officials of the government of the United States ought promptly sell all their tax-exempt bonds or else start the custom of paying the treasury on a parity with other taxpayers who are not so fortunate as to own securities that are legally exempt. When it comes to government by publicity, much can be done right here in Washington to arouse the patriotism of the wealthy people inside the administration, whose example would be valuable in influencing the wealthy people outside of the administration.

13-Word "Scoop"

By EVERETT C. GERRY
International News Service Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, June 4—On July 2, 1776, Benjamin Towne, editor of the Pennsylvania Evening Post, had exclusively the biggest story of the century—the decision of the Continental Congress to declare this country independent.

Unhurried, he returned to his little office situated in what is now the waterfront district and wrote the following:

"This day the CONTINENTAL CONGRESS declared the UNITED STATES FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES."

Exactly two lines, 13 words—no more—and Editor Towne had penned his "story" of the greatest news beat in American history.

In the issue of the Evening Post, moreover, readers found the historic item buried in the middle of a column, following an 18-line extract from the minutes of the committee of safety. It was followed in turn by an advertisement of the sale of a brigantine. Flanking it was another ad offering a $3 reward for the return of a slave.

How Scoop Obtained

How Editor Towne obtained his journalistic "scoop" and underestimated its historic significance, was revealed in a pamphlet issued by the federal writers' project of the works progress administration. The brochure, bound and printed in Colonial style, was sponsored by the Pennsylvania Historical commission.

Dispelling the erroneous impression that Pennsylvania entered the American Revolution reluctantly the brochure, entitled "A Bid For Liberty," submits 12 sets of resolutions and declarations adopted by various communities throughout the state, reflecting mounting resentment over England's treatment of the Colonies.

Familiar to every schoolboy is the story of the signing of the Declaration of Independence in this city July 4, 1776. But few students of history are aware that as long as three years before that date the colonists in Pennsylvania began to shake their collective fist at the mother country.

Independence Sought Previously

One of the first known communities to take a definite stand against England, according to the federal pamphlet, was Hanover township, then a part of Lancaster county, whose population was mostly Scotch-Irish. Other communities in Pennsylvania which registered protests long before the signing of the Declaration were Middletown, Hummelstown, Reading and Chester.

Quotes from the pamphlet best illustrate the general theme: "By the time the first Continental Congress convened in Carpenter's Hall, diversified public sentiment throughout Pennsylvania was crystallizing, so that even in remote frontiers the issues facing America were becoming understood as matters of life and death rather than as barren abstractions."

Profitable Trips

BY PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, June 4 — The supreme court is unfair to organized chiseling and has doubled the hazard of jockeying railroads out of part of the fare between Washington and New York.

For long years the railroads have run week-end excursions between the two cities. The round trip excursion fare is $3.75 for the 225-mile trip. That is nearly a dollar less than the one way fare even under the two-cent-a-mile rates. It is less than half the first class one way fare.

Thousands of Washingtonians flock to the trains late Saturday night for the privilege of a few hours in the great Empire City. We have heard also, though can't prove, that a few New Yorkers boldly cross the Hudson each week-end for the thrill of a Sunday in the desert wilds of Washington.

It is a short excursion either way. You leave at midnight Saturday and must be on the train by Sunday midnight to return. But all that procedure is above board and honest.

Stubs Cashed

The racket lies here. Certain smart porters and general hangers-on around the railroad stations discovered that many people bought the round trip tickets intending to go only the one way, since even that meant a saving from the regular one-way fare.

So a passenger bound from Washington to New York would be accosted in the New York depot with an offer of 50 cents for his return stub. That was gravy for the passenger, since he didn't intend using it anyway. In turn, these stubs would be sold to passengers bound back to Washington. The price was $1.50 or $2, again a neat saving for the passenger and a nice profit of two or three hundred per cent for the handler.

The business developed to handsome proportions and "dealers" set themselves up in New York and Washington hotels ready to do business. But along come the law.

One such alleged dealer in Washington was arrested. She wasn't accused of depriving the railroad of its rightful revenue. Instead she was charged with selling second hand property without a license. Moreover, she was convicted.

Bad Business

She appealed the case on the ground she had been denied a jury trial, and by that means it came to the supreme court. The supreme court held that for such minor crimes as selling second hand goods without a license it was all right to refuse the expensive jury trial. However, the case was sent back to the lower courts on technical grounds for re-trial.

But such publicity was given the case that many of the old ticket dealers are scared out—at least for the time.

Oberlin, O., was the scene of many disturbances during the half-century preceding the Civil war. The strong anti-slavery sentiment there was demonstrated on many occasions.

The "Oberlin Evangelist" for June 4, 1836 tells how a great mass meeting was held in the college chapel, when the news of the destruction of Lawrence, Kan., reached Oberlin.

Resolutions were adopted condemning the destruction of Lawrence.

Not in On the Tax Play

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 4—Some disciples of the new ordeal in the senate cocked a doubting eye at the Harrison resolution, proposing a congressional investigation of rich income tax deceivers. The message from Mr. Roosevelt said specifically he wanted the treasury to make the investigation. He said nothing about a congressional inquiry.

Offhand, it appeared that such an eminent White House lawyer as Senator Pat Harrison was either committing treason or else got his signals mixed.

As a matter of fact, he was not guilty on either count. The average run of new ordealists were just not in on the play.

If Senator Harrison had dared confess it, he could have said he got the copy of his resolution from the treasury department indirectly, if not directly. He could also have said that he sent the congressional bill drafters down to the treasury to work on the resolution, so that the law preventing the treasury from recommending legislation directly could be subscribed to, technically.

Pillory

The play which befuddled congressmen did not understand is simply this:

The treasury does not need to make an investigation to find out who the deceivers are. It knows now. Furthermore, it has just about all the power it really needs to get any additional information it really wants, without obtaining further authority from congress.

What the treasury wants is to have congress give out the names and advertise them far and wide in the customary manner of congressional investigation committees.

The plain fact is either the President or the treasury could have made public the names of tax dodgers without fear of criticism. But that method would only have provided a flash in the publicity pan. The sensation would have occupied the public mind for only a few days. But a joint congressional investigation committee can give out a few names a day, summon the worst miscreants and examine them, keep typesetters finding new and bigger headlines daily.

It will give the nation something to think and talk about other than the supreme court (now adjourned, unpacked), the minimum wage and maximum hours discussion, and other pending herrings, red, dead or dying.

No one ever accused this administration of not knowing its publicity.

Incorporation

Another herring which seems to have left a befuddled scent may be found in the Congressional Record, Page 6,705, first column. There Senate Leader Robinson is recorded as speaking some good words for the O'Mahoney bill, proposing a federal charter for all corporations. Up to then, Mr. Robinson had not said anything good about it during the year or more it had been pending. The measure was supposed to have been relegated to the filing case of unwanted legislation. The unofficial attorneys general, Corcoran and Cohen, were against it, and all trustworthy inside advices indicate the President was also.

Naturally, word spread among lobbyists, observers and even legislators that the administration was going to take the bill out of moth balls and push it as a method of controlling production, prices (in lieu of the expected fair trade practices *method) and corporate con*trol. Robinson, it is being said, was playing advance agent for a White House move to this effect.

Don't be too sure. There may be other explanations of the Robinson indorsement, personal and senatorial. At least the best of trustworthy sources are guaranteeing that the bill will not pass.

Off the Record

Floor Leader Rayburn was delivering an impassioned plea to the house, urging it to accept the President's compromise on the relief bill. He had just reached the climax when a page boy pulled at his coat, saying:

"The lord is calling upon you."

Rayburn, hurriedly, in an aside, whispered:

"Tell him to wait."

The boy, realizing Rayburn had probably failed to catch the name, said, louder this time:

"The lord is outside."

There was no use whispering any more, as a number of colleagues were noticing the scent, so Rayburn turned to the lad and said aloud:

"It is a bad time for the lord or anyone else to be calling on me for help, just now."

Explanations developed that the caller was Lord Marley, minority leader of the British House of Peers. Rayburn told him about it later.

Alabama Boosts for Tallulah

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 4—Thoughts while strolling: Add derbyiste—Major Bowes and Conde Nast. Nothing stirs wanderlust like a liner nosing out to open sea. Reddest of the red-haired orchestra leaders: Richard Himber. For a smooth public speaker, I'll take Albert Edward Wiggam.

Rhyme: For a swift dancing caper, no one is topping Paul Draper. Otto Soglow is the same size and shape of the King he draws. Never knew anyone who didn't like Grantland Rice. Ogden Nash still looks the collegiate freshman and Roy Howard continues to turn in those shirt and tie combinations.

Any magazine would top a million for the Duke of Windsor's thoughts. Bushy haired boys: Arnold Genthe, Will Irwin, J. P. McEvoy and Jay C. Flippin. The midget mustache Herb Roth features, the big stiff. Comics have to step some to be funnier than W. C. Fields on the radio. Or anywhere else.

Tempus fugiting note: F. Scott Fitzgerald thatching grey at the temples. Famous walks: Hope Williams, Olin Skinner, Dolores, Mrs. Fiske, Jack Dempsey and Chaplin. Connecticut neighbors: Gene Tunney and Heywood Broun. Voices alike: Nellie Revell and Fibber McGee's Molly.

Handsome scribblers: John McClain and Joe Bryan III. America's highest priced society reporter, Maury Paul in his Rolls. Wonder if Tobie Summer knows Obie Winter? Ambition: To have James Melton's voice and join the boys on the court house steps in "Sweet Adeline!"

The entire state of Alabama is going to town for its favorite theatrical daughter, the glamorous Tallulah Bankhead, as a selection for the "Scarlett O'Hara" role in "Gone With the Wind." Editorials are being written and public meetings are being held to further the plea. Alabamians feel the interpreter of Scarlett must be a brilliant, vivacious dashing personality. "Tallu" is all that, with a hefty plus. She should be of the South Southy and she is that. Also the actress is the daughter of an eminent Southern family, the grand-daughter of a Confederate captain, and has the proper accent. Too, there is a growing demand for Miriam Hopkins, another Southern daughter.

Daniel Frohman, who will be 87 this August, has eaten but one meal a day for years. His method is simple. He eats the meal, and a big one, when he is hungry. It may be at 9 o'clock in the morning, 3 in the afternoon or 11 at night. He believes that too many people allow their appetites to be guided by the hour. That is: "Well, it is 1 o'clock and I must go out to lunch." Frohman's only diversion is bridge, and he plays a first class game.

Jack Baragwanath, the mining engineer, who has been known chiefly among the cognescenti as Neysa McMein's husband is shucking off that more or less cloistered role. Recently he authored a book on prospecting to show that he has been around and seen a few things in queer corners of the world. Then he tried his hand at painting, and they say that one or two of his nudes put September Morn smack back in the horse and buggy era. Now comes news he has authored a play that is brimming with vim and vinegar. And if it gets by the censor will make "The Woman" and a few other eye-poppers appear tame indeed.

Many of us ex-trick bicycle riders —see L. A. W. report of Gallia county meet for July, 1900—are gladdened by a revival of the art. Three have been featured in cabaret floor shows this winter. Then, of course, there is Joe Jackson's comedy trick act which goes on and on as a headliner in variety halls all over the world. The newest of the bike tricks is a one-hand stand on the handle bars. Then there is Boy Foy on one wheel who appears in the Rainbow Room and at Music Hall.

New Plan Drops NRA Methods

Wage-Hour Planners Seek To Profit from Former Errors.

The NRA was the administration's first attempt to regulate wages and hours. Its provisions and those of the proposed new wages and hours legislation are reviewed by The Star in the following story, last of a series of four.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 4 — The new wage and hours legislation is still in the formative stage but its proponents have indicated they were keeping in mind the lessons learned from NRA.

There are no provisions for price fixing in the bills introduced by Senator Black, Democrat of Alabama and Representative Connery, Democrat of Massachusetts, immediately after congress received President Roosevelt's message asking in general terms for labor standards legislation.

Price-fixing, eventually abandoned, was one of the headaches of the national recovery act.

It was difficult of enforcement and led to charges of fostering monopoly.

One of the conclusions reached by a presidential committee which studied the good points and faults of NRA was that separate administrative bodies should handle labor and trade aspects of an industrial program; that is, that the body fixing labor standards should not also fix prices.

Flexibility Sought

This committee also found a lack of flexibility in NRA.

The Connery-Black bill proposes flexibility in that a five-man board would determine reasonable wage and hour standards for specific industries. The cost of living and many other factors would guide the board.

These other factors would include wages paid for similar work under collective bargaining and wages paid for comparable work by employers maintaining fair standards.

The board findings would be fixed after public hearings in which the board could use committees of labor and employer representatives in an advisory capacity. Board decisions would be subject to court review.

In general NRA was far more inclusive than the proposed new legislation.

Where NRA sought to bring all business and industry under its standards, the Black-Connery bill would apply only to industries engaged in interstate commerce.

Thus the purely intrastate businesses which furnished NRA with many problems would not be affected.

Small industries also would be exempted, though the line between great and small has not yet been drawn. Connery has suggested it be at 15 employes.

Marked Difference

The entire philosophy of the approach of wages and hours legislation under the Connery-Black bill is different, for that matter, from NRA.

Under NRA the philosophy was one of industrial self-government with government supervision. Each industry had its code authority and was supposed to govern itself.

The new legislation proposes direct government control over labor standards in businesses which produce goods in interstate commerce. Industry and the public were expected to do most of the policing under NRA—industry by reporting to code authorities and by refusing to use products which lacked NRA's blue eagle; the public by refusing to buy other than under the blue eagle.

The labor standards board would enforce the new legislation. If an employer refused to meet its standards, the board could ban his products from interstate shipment and ask the courts to enforce its order. Violation would be punishable by fines of $500 or six months imprisonment, or both.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, June 4, 1927. Clarence D. Chamberlain, piloting the monoplane Columbia and with Charles A. Levine, millionaire head of the Columbia Aircraft Corporation as passenger, took off from Roosevelt Field, N. Y., in an attempt at a non-stop trans-Atlantic flight.

Elmer H. Wottring, 55, died at his home south of Prospect.

Mrs. Anna D. Knapp and Walter E. Fetter were united in marriage at their newly-furnished home on Carner avenue by Rev. C. L. Allen, pastor of Calvary Evangelical church.

Grant Garrett, 62, died at his home on Lee street after a two-day illness.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, June 4, 1917.

It was announced in Washington that prohibitive bail would be demanded by the department of justice in all cases of arrest under the draft registration law. As a result of the drastic decision it was believed that there would be a minimum of "slackers." Attorney General Gregory, with complete data from all his agents at hand, estimated that out of 10,000,000 men subject to registration there would not be more than 10,000 draft dodgers.

Marion county board of elections issued rules and instructions for draft registration set for Thursday. All precinct booths were to be open from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m.

A New York dispatch reported that Rev. Norman E. Thomas, former Marion man, was one of the organizers of the American Union Against Militarism, the purpose of which, as announced, was "to give real aid to the 15,000 youths who have consolentious scruples against military service and to urge the war department to make provision for their exemption."

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cheney and daughter Isabelle arrived from El Paso, Tex., for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Jones of North Vine street.

...Surprised As Dicky Won His Approval

...CATHERINE PROVED a true ...Faith wakened in ... moods, and her ... Dicky so amused ... gave no thought ... my being with Kath... it for granted that I had come over to see our daughter. When Katherine finally decided that Faith had had enough excitement and parental petting, he plunged at once into the subject of Philip Veritzen.

"I met P. V. on the road" Dicky said, "and I don't know whether the old fox suspected the truth or not, but he hailed me, and said he was so sorry to have missed me, but that you had said I had gone down to the hospital to see Mary.

"I quite fancy myself as a champion evader," Dicky went on with a chuckle. "Of course, I knew you never had said anything of the kind, so I put on my best innocent air, and said that either he had misunderstood you, or that you had gone suddenly batty. I tried to think of what you would naturally tell him, and said I had told you I had an errand in Laconia, but that you probably got it mixed, you having a genius that way. Forgive me for the libel, Darling, but the situation demanded desperate lying, and your little Ananias rose manfully to the occasion."

What She Told Him

"Dicky!" I exclaimed ecstatically, "How perfectly marvelous! That's exactly what I did tell him, that you had an errand in Laconia."

"I thought as much," he retorted, "from just a little glint that flashed into the old bird's off eye. It just goes to show that the old thought television between our two loving hearts is working perfectly. But whatever did he mean by this spiel? He said, 'I hope you'll approve of the plan your wife and I have worked out for Mary. She will explain it to you'."

Katherine rose with decision.

"When it's a case of Philip Veritzen's plans to be discussed between the Grahams, all innocent bystanders had better get into the bombproof cellars," she said. "I don't know what all this is about, but if Mary's involved, I can see ructions ahead. I don't want to be inhospitable, but if you don't mind postponing this discussion until you've reached the shelter of the other cabin, I shall be infinitely obliged."

Plays Ignorant

She grinned at Dicky as she finished, and I sent silent thanks in her direction for the thoroughness with which she had implanted her ignorance of the whole matter in his mind.

"All right, all right," Dicky retorted with an answering grin, "kick us out if you want to. See if we care. And when you come begging us to tell you what it's all about, we'll give you the back of our hand, also the merry ha-ha."

"When I want to know, I'll find out," she said. "In the meantime, scat!"

We went laughing out of the house and down the path to our cabin. Tacitly we did not mention Philip Veritzen or his plans until we reached the deserted veranda. Then I told Dicky everything that Philip Veritzen had said.

Dicky Speculates

He listened without comment until I had finished. Then he put his hands behind his head and leaned back in his chair.

"Hanged if I can make him out," he said. "The probabilities are that he's taking Mary for a run-around, and is trying to bust up the marriage. If he is," he said with sudden ferocity which I knew was born of his affection for his winsome niece, "he'll need a new map when I get through with him. Neither his white hair nor his spats will save him.

"On the other hand," he said, "he really may be playing the game with Mary. It's his rule, as you know, to isolate his leading people when they are rehearsing."

He had not mentioned that part of the plan which called for my sharing Mary's apartment. It was with distinct trepidation that I mentioned it when I finally made up my mind that he was deliberately avoiding it.

"What do you think of my sharing Mary's apartment?" I asked.

He looked oddly at me.

"I think it's a good thing," he said. "You'll be in New York where I can get hold of you at a minute's notice if I need you, as I'm very apt to do."

Clum of 478 Forest street was awarded a prize of $12.50 today when awards totaling $387.50 were given 17 Ohio Wesleyan university students following the annual presentation of awards for excellence in various fields, according to a news report from the Delaware school.

Miss Clum, a sophomore, and Robert Olds of Youngstown won third place awards in English composition.

Oratorical prizes of $25 each were awarded to five students, including Lucien Copley, of Marengo and Margaret Hardin of Delaware. Other winners were Rachel Shipps of Delaware, $25 for best grades in third-year German; Ralph Turner of Delaware, $30 for best grades in second-year German; Richard Steckel of Delaware, $25 chemistry prize.

UPPER SANDUSKY SENIORS GRADUATE

UPPER SANDUSKY, June 4—A class of 69 including five postgraduates were graduated at exercises held at the Union school auditorium here Wednesday night. Dr. Edmund D. Soper, president of Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware, gave the class address on the subject, "Ourselves and the Future."

Invocation was prayed by Rev. C. F. Betz. Miss Glenna Corfman, salutatorian, then spoke followed by orations by Lowell Railing president of the class, and Miss Muriel Withrow, class orator.

Dr. Soper then spoke to the class, his address being followed by the valedictory address by Miss Rita Stephan.

DROWNED MAN BURIED

GALION, June 4—Funeral services were held Thursday at Berkwitz chapel in Cleveland for Leonard Fellenbaum, 24, who was drowned in the new Big Four reservoir here Wednesday afternoon. Burial was made in the Ridge road cemetery.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

BY ESTHER TYLER

(Copyright, 1937, Esther Tyler)

SYNOPSIS: Jude Hinshaw, my old flame, is mysteriously shot to death. That starts our stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunts. A series of strange attacks occurs. Then we find the body of Michael's mad father below the bluff. Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder, then nearly finished with sleeping powders. The Skipper, Mike's tall, tweedy younger aunt, disappears. Cook, William, the chauffeur, and Annie, the maid, suspect Higgins, the old butler. I lock him in his room, believing him the killer, then write out the case against each person.

CHAPTER 43

Evidence And Motive

I FUMBLED for more paper and hurried on.

MICHAEL

Has refused point blank to answer questions. Received some mysterious communication from Jude—perhaps the last she ever made. Was outdoors at some time near that at which Jude met her death. Furiously opposed to any investigation. Suggestion of hushing up whole thing uncharacteristic.

No proof that he did not kill the cat and wreck his aunt's room. First one on the spot after the shooting of M. Farrington. Would have been trusted by all the victims even more than Higgins. Might have pocketed William's letter. Seems to have some inside knowledge since the first night.

NOTE: Could not have beaned either Cook, Annie, William or myself. Ignorance of his father's existence singular. Bare possibility that his dive over the rocks was an attempt at suicide. Motive incomprehensible.

I brooded over that sheet for several minutes. Not much evidence, aside from his queer actions that first night. Nothing definite. Just a vague, insistent undercurrent of duplicity totally unlike Michael. His rows with Gay were encouraging in that they might have been expected. Mike was set up rather like an August day—warm and sunny with occasional thunder-storms. For the dozenth time I cursed him for not taking me into his confounded secret, whatever it was. That close-mouthed attitude was not like him.

Gay. I wrote next and stopped at a complete loss. As far I could remember at that moment we had not one shred of evidence against Gay Palmer. True, no one had actually seen her in her room on the night of Jude's death, but no one had seen her out of it. The same applied to the episode of the cat and the diamantled room. She had been in the library when Cook and Annie were attacked, in her own room with all the others when William and I were brained. She had not been at the scene of a crime in one single instance.

Her actions, as far as I could see, had been perfectly natural and absolutely predictable. There was no trace of a motive, unless we were to go back to that little flare of jealousy so characteristically exhibited on that first evening. Her slate was so clean that for a moment my mystery writing habits sent a thrill of suspicion buzzing through my head. But I was obliged to laugh at my own suspicions. I wrote:

Evidence—none. Motive—none.

Case Against Cook

My temples were beginning to pound like steam pipes. I knew that the time which I might decently allow myself for sulking in a corner had long since elapsed. I knew that the others upstairs must be getting impatient. But something in the back of my head told me to go on. I must think quickly, and my thoughts on paper were worth a dozen of my thoughts left to themselves. I needed another drink, and I took one.

COOK

A dope fiend at some time in her life. Very hot-headed. Strong as a bull. Capable of cleverly managed deceit over a long period. Possible motive—same as William's plus the slightly unbalanced mind of the addict.

I wrote my next idea down with fingers that trembled with excitement.

Episode in the kitchen might have been an act designed by her to throw the authorities off the scent. Same applies to mysterious appearance and disappearance of William's letters. No evidence of her whereabouts at any time given by any one but William and Annie. During the episode in William's room, William might have acted for Cook, whom he was fond of.

The mess in M. Farrington's room was the sort of thing that might be expected of a drug-crazed person. Both of the Farrington sisters trusted Cook. She is as strong as a man. Might have bodily removed either the Skipper or M. Farrington. Note: All hypothetical. No real evidence.

Nevertheless, I experienced a thrill over that possibility. In its light, I could explain the entire performance. Cook, aiding William and Annie to execute revenge for his imprisonment, might have been obliged to go to appalling extremes in order to cover their own tracks. It was highly possible that the poor old lunatic, wandering around in the dead of night, had observed something he was not meant to see and had, accordingly, been done away with. The only substantiating witness to Higgins' alibi had thus been removed.

Perhaps M. Farrington had seen something, too. That would explain the several attempts on her life. What could she had seen? Apparently she was unaware of its importance. The coat-sleeve that she thought she saw in her mirror might have been William's.

Must Bag the Culprit

Time was passing. A very few hours remained before the probable arrival of a rescue party from shore. Unless we were to go through a worse ordeal than we had yet encountered, it was vital that we have our culprit bagged and ready for delivery when that first boat touched shore. Gritting my teeth, I pushed on with my notations.

ANNIE

Also capable of good bluff. Least so of the three. Was certainly tied up by someone else. Hysterics might have been due strain instead of fright. Has seemed unafraid of empty house since first night. No definite evidence. Incapable of any of it alone. Might do anything for or with William. Motive plausible.

M. FARRINGTON

Invited Jude here. Heard last conversation between Skipper and Jude. With Skipper when person was heard in upper hall. With others during attack on Cook and Annie and attack on William and me. Brother would have trusted her implicitly. Not strong enough to remove anyone bodily.

Last person to see the Skipper. Nearly killed twice. Apparently withholding evidence, consciously or otherwise. With Annie when letters were removed from William's room. Has acted characteristically throughout. Motive—none.

I look over the bluff and get an idea, tomorrow.

A mill will be established in the Union of South Africa for manufacture of paper from sugar cane refuse.

TOURNAMENT PLANS AT CLUB ARRANGED

Army-Navy Game Set for Country Club Golfers Wednesday.

... tournament and special ... at the Marion Country ... announced today by K. ... tourney chairman, and ... Kavanaugh, pro at the club. ... and Sunday the qualifying rounds of the June handicap tournament will be held, with a novelty Army-Navy game set for next Wednesday.

Either 32 or 16 of the participating golfers will qualify by virtue of their net scores for the June handicap event, which will be held throughout the month on week-ends. In the event that the qualifying list includes 32 golfers, the 16 first round matches will be played the following week-end. Likewise with 16 in the competition the initial round will be played a week after the qualifying round, the only difference being that the tourney will be completed in one less round of play.

All members are invited to participate in both the tournament and the novelty Army-Navy game set for next Wednesday. In the Army-Navy affair the matches being played by foursomes composed of two players from each division. Seeding will be made on the basis of one point for the lowest aggregate on each hole.

Already ringer score competition for both men and women is under way. The contest will continue throughout the season, closing at sundown on Aug. 31. Golfers with the lowest scores on each hole during the season will be eligible for awards.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Testing Skin.

SKIN TESTING as a means of detecting certain diseases has been used for the past quarter of a century. Within recent years it has come to be regarded as particularly valuable in the recognition of what are known as "allergic" disturbances.

This procedure was originally used to determine the presence of tuberculosis. It was then called the "tuberculin test." It is applied by injecting or scratching into the skin of the forearm certain protein products derived from the killed germs of tuberculosis.

The place where the injection was made is examined 48 hours later. If redness is found and the sibly swelling in the region of inoculation, the test is accepted as "positive." After the first 48 hours the procedure is repeated in the other arm. The test is regarded as "negative" if there is no reaction in either arm.

When this measure was first proposed, the medical profession hoped it might prove to be a sure means of detecting tuberculosis in its very early stage. It has been decided that the test is not always reliable. But it is accepted as a great aid in determining the tendency to tuberculosis in young children.

Another example of the value of skin testing is its use in determining the resistance of an individual to diphtheria. No doubt you are familiar with what is known as the "Schick test." It is a painless and safe procedure, widely used in all large cities. It is especially valuable as a check on the success of the inoculation against diphtheria.

As I have indicated, skin testing is of particular importance in the study of allergic diseases. The words "allergy" and "allergic" are applied when there is a peculiar individual sensitiveness to certain substances, notably foods, articles of dress or household substances. For example, all asthmatic sufferer is usualy sensitive to the proteins of certain foods; in hay fever the victim may be sensitive to the pollen of certain grasses.

In the skin tests used to determine the exciting agent of allergic disturbances, extracts are made from foods, pollens, animal dander and other suspected materials; these extracts are then injected or scratched into the skin.

Dr. Copeland is glad to answer inquiries from readers who send an addressed, stamped envelope with their questions. Address all letters to Dr. Copeland in care of this newspaper at its main office in this city.

FOREST BOY WINS F.F.A. LAURELS AT COLUMBUS

Merritt Corbin Given State Farmer Degree for Outstanding Accomplishments While in School.

Special to The Star

FOREST, June 4—Merritt Corbin, senior of Forest High school, received the state farmer degree at the state F. F. A. conference at Columbus today.

This degree is given by the Ohio Association of Future Farmers of America. This honor is conferred only upon those who show unusual ability in vocational agriculture; rate high in scholastic standing, school and community activities; make and invest a certain amount gained from projects carried in connection with vocational agriculture.

Merritt has made an unusually fine project and investment record during his four years in high school. These include projects in wheat, dairy cows, hogs, supervised practice in farm accounts, egg and poultry records, soil testing of home farm, replanning farm layout, farm shop construction and machinery repair work. Through these activities he has made and invested $763.99 which is far above the state requirement for such a degree.

He has actively participated in a number of cooperative activities.

He has held a number of offices in his F. F. A. school and community organizations. He has been vice president, president, and reporter in F. F. A. He has always been interested in Sunday school work.

He has been chorister and during the last two years superintendent of that organization. He has held the office of vice president and president of the local farm board. During the last two years Merritt has been the leader of the Patterson 4-H club. He is a member of the Hardin County Honor society.

Judging contests form an interesting part of vocational work and Merritt has made a fine record, having taken part in county and state contests.

Merritt has shown himself to be an all-round student in high school, his interests being shown not only along his chosen course of study but entering upon many other fields. He was a contestant in his sophomore year in an F. F. A. public speaking contest. He won first prize in the American Legion essay contest in his junior year. He has played both basketball and football during his high school career. He has taken a great interest in music, having taken part in the mixed high school chorus and high school operetta.

His scholastic standing is high, having taken prizes in world history, physics, chemistry, and agriculture. This year he won first place in the Ohio State university agriculture scholarship contest, which entitled him to a four-year scholarship. Merritt has already made plans to enter college this fall.

RICHWOOD GIRL IS BRIDESMAID

Acts at Wedding of Couple at Granville, O.

Special to The Star

RICHWOOD, June 4 — Swaney Chapel at Granville, O., was the scene of the marriage of Miss Dorothy Fuller of Larcemont, N. Y., to William Schaefer of Toledo, O. The ceremony was read by Dr. Avery Shaw, president of Denison university, at high noon last Saturday. The bride is well known here.

She was dressed in a white net gown made over a slip of heavy white satin. The bride's veil fell in tiers from a high satin crown and her bouquet consisted of gardenias and lily of the valley.

Five young women preceded Miss Fuller to the altar: Miss Mildred Hull of Youngstown, O., as maid of honor, Miss Christine Matteson of Richwood, Miss Martha Itobuck of Gomer, Miss Jane Viall of Rochester, N. Y., and Miss Jean Carle of Canton, O., as bridesmaids. The maid of honor wore an attractive frock of peach net over a taffeta peach slip with blue accessories. The bridesmaids wore frocks of blue net over blue taffeta slips with peach accessories.

Phil Schaefer of Toledo attended his brother as best man and there were also four ushers.

Immediately after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Fuller, parents of the bride, were hosts at a reception given for the bridal party at the Granville Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. William Schaefer are both graduates of Denison university. The former Miss Fuller is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, and Mr. Schaefer is a member of Lamda Chi Alpha fraternity. Mr. and Mrs. William Schaefer will make their home in Toledo.

WILLIAM E. WATKINS DIES NEAR BUCYRUS

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, O., June 4—William E. Watkins, 80, farmer in Sandusky township north of Bucyrus, died of paralysis last night in the home where he had lived since his marriage 58 years ago. Mr. Watkins was born in Galion on July 20, 1856, and was married in 1879 to Miss Mary Jane Knisely. Surviving are the widow and a daughter, Mrs. Zoraida Reichard of New Washington. The funeral will be conducted Sunday at 2 p. m. at the home and at 2:15 at the Loss Creek Lutheran church. Burial will be made in the Biddle cemetery.

UPPER SANDUSKIAN CLAIMED BY DEATH

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, June 14—Martin L. Orians, 41, died suddenly Wednesday night following a heart attack. He was found unconscious by neighbors on a lawn near his home.

He is survived by his widow, Mildred Parish Orians and one daughter, Ruth Anna Orians at home. He also leaves one sister, Miss Rose Orians of here and three brothers, Edward Orians of here; Leo Orians, of Bellevue and Clarence Orians of Detroit.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 9 a. m. at St. Peter's Catholic church with Rev. Fr. John R. Forrer in charge. Burial will be made in the church cemetery.

BUCYRUS STREET ORDINANCE FOUGHT

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, June 4—Ordinances providing for the treatment of Bucyrus side streets and for the appropriation of $2,500 for the project, met with vigorous opposition from Councilman Ralph Ludwig at the meeting of Bucyrus city council Thursday night.

Ludwig based his disapproval on the local relief situation. "Why should we wait until we might need that money for relief before fixing those streets. Why weren't they fixed when the state and federal funds were still available" Ludwig questioned in voicing his opposition.

The ordinances were adopted with Ludwig the only dissenting voter.

Columbus Women Head State and National Association of Rainbow Veterans' Auxiliary.

Above are the two women who hold the spotlight of attention today as the eighteenth annual Ohio Rainbow Division Veterans association and the Rainbow Women of Ohio meet for a two-day reunion. Mrs. Lampman of Columbus is president of the national association and Mrs. Patterson of Columbus is the state president.

Mrs. Patterson's staff of officers includes Mrs. William Laughman of 375 East Fairground street, second vice president and wife of a former state president of the Rainbow association who is now serving as a member-at-large of the Ohio association executive committee.

Mrs. Lampman is a "war bride" of 1917. She is a charter member of the Columbus chapter of Rainbow women which was organized in 1919 and served as secretary-treasurer of the state chapter from 1930 to 1934. She was secretary of the Columbus chapter in 1933, president of the Columbus chapter from 1934 to 1936 and was elected state president in 1935. She was elected national president of the auxiliary in 1936 and during her term has had the unique privilege of being president of the national and Columbus chapters at the same time.

Rainbow women will meet with the men throughout the two-day meeting except in the business sessions Saturday morning, which will be held separately.

Mrs. E. C. Weitzel of Cuyahoga Falls is first vice president of the state association and Mrs. R. Haynes of Lancaster is the secretary-treasurer.

The reunion auxiliary committee chairmen from Marion are the following: Mrs. Stella Rausch, president of the Marion auxiliary, general chairman; Mrs. E. K. Reed, registration; Mrs. Laughman, entertainment; Mrs. Fred F. Miller, favors.

SANDUSKY MAN ADDRESSES CLUB

C. E. Whinnery, principal of Sandusky High school, spoke before the noon luncheon meeting of the Marion Kiwanis club yesterday at Hotel Marion. The speaker's topic was, "Vocational Guidance." Mr. Whinnery was brought here through the effort of the Kiwanis vocational guidance committee of which R. A. Garvin is chairman.

Hackney, Mystery Mike To Meet in Open Air Arena

Marion's weekly wrestling programs will be moved under the open sky next week when the members of the break-it-off society meet for the first mat bill of the season at the outdoor arena on Uncapher avenue. If inclement weather prevails, however, the scrap will be held at the usual battlefield, in the Marion Steam Shovel gymnasium.

For the first open air card promoters are booking what they hope will prove to be an outstanding series of matches. Honey Boy Hackney of Atlanta, Ga., is paired with the well-known Mystery Mike, while Tiger Moore of Benton, Ill., will face Robert Montgomery. Both of the main scraps will be over the 90-minute time limit with two falls to win.

The Mystery Mike - Hackney fracas should appease the appetite of the most rabid fans, basing predictions on past performances. Mike, the much hated grappler who hides his identity behind a scarlet mask, came near being unveiled in his last appearance here. Nevertheless he succeeded in scoring a win over LeRoy McGuirk of Stillwater, Okla., one time holder of the light heavyweight championship.

Spectators concede the cleverness of the Mystery man, but have been hoping that someone in the near future succeeds in mowing him down. Honey Boy Hackney, who hasn't lost a bout in the Marion ring since his first visit here early this year may be the grappler who can accomplish it. Hackney has been seen in company with two fast and rough light heavies, Speedy Schaeffer and Count Von Bromberg, and on both occasions his opponents came out second best.

Bob Montgomery, whose cauliflower ears and stubby neck refute any claim he might make to being a relative of the cinema star of the same name, is rated in practically the same class as the Mystery wrestler. In his first appearance here in nearly three years Montgomery tamed Buck Estes in two consecutive falls on the card two weeks ago.

Montgomery rabbit - punched Estes almost to the point of a knockout and bludgeoned his way to a decisive victory. He will need to be in top form when he takes the corner opposite the wiley Benton, Ill., youth. The Benton battler, Moore, is young, fast on his feet and has the knack of doping out what likely is to happen next. He has been seen here often and has a large following of Marion fans who like his clean and aggressive methods.

The outdoor program will begin at 8:30 o'clock. A 20-minute preliminary scrap, matching a pair of heftics who have not yet been selected, will start the card. The 90-minute bouts will follow with the Hackney-Mystery Mike scrap being the last on the program.

PULLING CONTEST SUNDAY

By The Associated Press

BELLEFONTAINE, O., June 4—Owners of more than 30 teams fed their animals solicitously today as they headed for Troy to compete in the 1937 championship pulling contests Sunday. Ray Hennesey, president-secretary of the Horse Pulling Association of Ohio, said that entries included the defending teams, "Tom and Jim" owned by George Manley of Ashland, heavyweights, and "Queen and Jim" owned by John Day of Springport, Ind., lightweights.

Keytown Camp	2	0	1000
Excavator	1	1	.500
Huber	1	1	.500
Fairfield	0	2	.000
Osgood	0	2	.000
Omar Baking	0	2	.000

Maynard Snyder, speed baritist of the undefeated Marion Steam Shovel entry in the Industrial league, entered the ranks of the city's 1937 softball stars by hurling his team to a no-hit, no-run victory over the Osgood team last night at the President field. Snyders' teammates went on a scoring rampage as they drove 24 runs across the plate in the one-sided victory.

Another contest last night closely resembled a merry-go-round as the unbeaten Defiance Pressed Steel outfit romped to a 23 to 6 victory over the Omar Baking club on the No. 2 diamond at the Uncapher avenue field. Keytown Camp remained in a three-way tie for the loop top spot with M. S. S. and Defiance by shutting out the General Excavator, 5 to 0. Huber Mfg. Co's squad, after dropping its opening game to the Campers came back last night to defeat Fairfield, 11 to 4.

Second No-Hit Game

Snyder's no-hit performance was the second of the current season, the previous perfect game being hurled by B. Lashey for the Wesley team in Sunday School league No. 2. Another contest, which came within a lone single of being a no-hit affair, was pitched this week by Ream for the Epworth Bishops of the No. 2 league. Snyder's teammates slammed the ball for an even score of singles off two Osgood hurlers.

Rapping out 21 hits, the strong Defiance Pressed Steel outfit, had little trouble in swamping the Omar Bakers under a 23 to 6 landslide. C. Kerns, Defiance leftfielder, clouted two home runs as he hit safely in four of six trips to the plate. Millisor, who went to the mound for Defiance in the fifth frame, was credited with a pair of triples.

Scoring eight runs in the opening inning, Huber's much-feared team took a decisive edge over the Fairfield aggregation and maintained it to the finish. Huber added three tallies in the second inning and coasted to an 11 to 4 victory. Walters, the Huber pitcher, was credited with seven strikeouts.

Campers Blank Foes

Weiss and Williams turned in good mound performances in Keytown Camp's 5 to 0 win over General Excavator. Together they whiffed 12 opposing hitters and permitted only three to hit safely. The Campers scored a pair of runs in the third inning and added three in the fifth, collecting a total of six hits and making but one miscue in the field.

TODAY'S STAR IN SOFTBALL

Maynard Snyder, M. S. S. moundsman, who hurled a no-hit game last night as his team romped to a 24 to 0 victory over the Osgood entry, on the President field. At bat, Snyder was credited with two hits and two runs in five attempts.

DIZZY SHOWN FOLLOWING SUSPENSION

Dizzy Dean, eccentric St. Louis Cardinal pitcher indefinitely suspended Wednesday by Ford Frick, president of the National League, is shown at Brooklyn as he watched the Card-Dodger game from the stands. Frick said the suspension was for "conduct detrimental to the best interests of baseball." He added his action was due to no specific instance but to an accumulation of "Deanisms." Only Rain Fills Garden As Max Waits in Vain

NEW YORK, June 4—Stalemated by destiny, in the form of a minor contract error, Max Schmeling was just another heavyweight looking for a fight, today, when, had the fates been kind, he might have been the newly crowned champion of the world.

Rain, and nothing else, filled the Madison Square Garden Bowl last night. A few hours before Jim Braddock, who under the terms of the original contract, was to have faced Schmeling there, had been suspended indefinitely. He had also been fined $1,000 for not putting in an appearance at the New York boxing commission offices, to weigh in for the bout.

Schmeling, browned and hard after training at Speculator, N. Y., was on hand, a somewhat pathetic figure. There was nothing pathetic about his criticism of the commission, however.

Max made it plain he thought the commission should have vacated the title, and named him leading contender with an elimination tourney to decide his opponent in a title fight.

Schmeling and Manager Joe Jacobs declined to say what their next move would be.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

LOU FETTE and WALLY BERGER, Bees—Former blanked Pirates with seven hits as Berger hit two homers, driving in four runs in 6-0 win.

BILLY SULLIVAN, Indians—His pinch-single with bases loaded drove in two runs in 6-2 win over Yankees.

VERNON KENNEDY, White Sox—Held Red Sox to six hits and fanned seven for 11-4 victory.

BUDDY MYER, Senators—Drove in two runs in 5-4 victory over Tigers.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

DENVER — The Alabama Kid, 135½, Columbus, O., stopped Joe Jaramillo, 135, Colorado, (1).

ST. LOUIS—John Henry Lewis, 174, Phoenix, stopped Bob Olin, 174, New York, (5).

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Jack Gibbons, 162, St. Paul, and Oscar Rankin, 165½, Chicago, drew, (10).

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 4—Time of game, two hours; winning pitcher, Dean; losing pitcher, Frick.... Wow! What with the Dean hearing, the Schmeling thing and the heat wave almost everybody here is whipped down...Max's radio script, flatly rejected by N. B. C., must have sizzled...Your agent went to the Madison Square Garden bowl last night, but couldn't stir up even a phantom.

But Bill Terry is quoted here as saying Dizzy Dean will be his first choice for the National League all-star team...that is, if Diz is out of the doghouse by that time...Note to Van Mungo: Lefty Gomez, who bet he would outhit you for the season, has connected safely in eight out of ten games...

Max Schmeling positively will not see Braddock and Louis in Chicago...Max expects to watch his next fight in the courts...Golf exploits of Tony Manero, Denny Shute and Harold (Jug) McSpaden are giving Boston galleries something to cheer about...All three pro in the hub district...

COMMERCIAL STEEL SQUAD SCHEDULES SERIES OF GAMES

Employes and Company Help Outfit Team in New Uniforms.

Announcement of the half-season schedule of baseball games for the Commercial Steel Castings Co. team was made following a reorganization meeting held this week. At the session, E. M. Breithaupt was elected manager and Bob Scott was chosen captain.

Through the cooperation of the employes and the company new suits have been purchased for the club and the team is expecting to don them for the first time this week-end. Sunday's game, to be played on the company's diamond on Cheney avenue, will find the Mifflin Red Sox furnishing the opposition.

The C. S. C. aggregation has played four games this season, turning in victories in three of the contests. The team has defeated Byhalia, 9 to 3, won over the Marion Redbird Merchants, 10 to 2 and 4 to 1, suffering a lone defeat at the hands of the Little Sandusky outfit, 19 to 17.

The portion of the schedule already completed follows: June 6—Mifflin Red Sox here, June 13—at Byhalia, June 20—at Mifflin with the Red Sox, June 27—at Marion vs. Marion Redbird Merchants, July 4—at Sugar Grove vs. Iberia and July 11—at Little Sandusky. Other teams in the city and district are being sought for open dates and club interested are asked to get in touch with Captain Scott at 496 Windsor street or Harry Miller at 631 Miami street, phone 5091.

Practice sessions for the team are held twice each week, Tuesday and Thursday evenings at the Cheney avenue diamond, with home games played there Sunday afternoons starting at 2:15 o'clock. Members of the Commercial Steel team are M. Harruff, H. Pierce and H. DeVoll, pitchers; Miller and Savage, catchers; Dale Welton, Harry Miller, Bob Scott and George Miley, infielders; and Jack Wasman, Whitey Gilbert, Piney Moore and S. Harruff, outfielders.

HEALTH BOARD HOLDS MEETING

Reports of Department Employes Read Listing Activities for Month of May.

Reports for May from the various city health agencies were read yesterday to members of the board of health at a meeting in Mayor Frederick C. Smith's office.

Dr. M. M. Weinbaum health commissioner, reported seven cases of notifiable diseases, of which five were scarlet fever and one tuberculosis. Nine cases were released from quarantine. The health commissioner made 17 visits to communicable diseases during the month, held six consultations with physicians, four conferences on public health, collected six water samples, issued one working certificate and conducted 32 general investigations. He examined 25 school children in addition to directing the pre-school clinics in which 273 children were examined.

Miss Kathleen M. Thomas, city nurse, reported she made 266 visits during the month including one maternity visit, one pre-natal visit, 49 infant welfare visits, two preschool visits, 17 orthopedic visits, 15 visits to physicians, six visits to clinic and hospital, and 14 social service visits. The nurse assisted with 12 pre-school clinics in which 273 children were examined, delivered 47 mother's certificates, took seven patients to diagnostic clinic, and gave 19 patients bedside care. She reported six visits to communicable diseases. She made 42 school visits where she conducted inspection of 343 school children and made 27 visits to homes in behalf of school children.

Dr. J. T. Gruber, city milk and food inspector, in his May report, recorded seven milk plant inspections of which three were reinspected, 75 farm inspections of which three were reinspected and 11 excluded, with three later readmitted. Milk cans inspected numbered 505 of which 35 were rejected, while 430 empty cans were inspected, 11 rejected and 18 ordered rewashed. Fifty-four cows were inspected, 460 gallons of milk rejected, 35 samples taken for sediment and 23 samples collected for laboratory tests. Thirty-four tests were made for butter fat, 23 for solids, 23 for moisture, 25 for bacteria count, 25 for acid and 26 for temperature. One permit was granted, 26 general orders issued, five persons ordered to repair cow barns and milk houses, two orders issued to milk plants and 107 laboratory reduction tests were made.

The average butter fat test of pasteurized milk was 4.13 as compared to the average butter fat test of raw milk which was 4.35.

The sanitary report of Police Chief William E. Marks showed 35 general investigations were conducted. Twenty-four persons were ordered to clean up their premises, seven ordered to remove garbage, nine ordered to remove trash and ashes, three ordered to repair open cisterns.

Staff Of School Paper Announced At Banquet

The 1937-38 staff of the Spotlight, the Thomas A. Edison Junior High school bi-weekly news magazine, was announced last evening at the first annual banquet, held at the school at 6:30 o'clock.

Next year's issues will be edited by the following, headed by Robert Lewis, an eleventh-year pupil, as editor-in-chief: Avanelle Bailey and Jean Hurruff, assistant editors; Betty Burgener, feature editor; Louise Stapleton, society editor; Irene Morgan, news editor; Donna Reeh, literary editor; Robert Burgener, humor editor; Charles Marshall, art editor; Paul Bishop, assistant art editor; Barbara Brettnaupt, Dorothy Washburn and Robert Riddle, reporters. Each home room will appoint a reporter at the beginning of the school year. The staff members were chosen by a faculty committee after having served in various capacities in publishing the paper this year.

Thirty members of the staff and guests were seated at an E-shaped table for the banquet, which was prepared and served by girls of the domestic arts classes under the direction of Miss Garnet Nagle. Vases of garden flowers, novel favors, and programs cut in the shape of an electric light bulb, decorated the table.

James Edington, who will be a senior at Harding High school next year presided as toastmaster and led group singing. He introduced the speaker, Miss Hallie Houck of The Star staff, who spoke on "Lights of the Future." Warren Cyders, business manager this year, talked on "High Lights."

A pin was presented to Flora Brewer as a reward for her service this year.

The paper was started this year and was issued every two weeks in mimeograph form. Faculty advisers are Miss Rosanna Crow, Miss Mary An Archer, Miss Mary Jo Stafford and Miss Nagel.

SPARKS FROM THE DOMESTIC HEARTHSTONE

Watch your step! We are now in the dangerous season when women fall in love—and men dive into it!

In the Garden of Girls most men are seeking a species of morning-glory which blossoms under the sun of a smile, clings without clutching and "shuts up" of its own accord.

Why will a girl work so hard to turn a friend into a lover, when the real secret of happiness consists in turning a lover into a friend?

When a man whose given name is John or Bill permits his sons to be christened Basil, Merlin or Percival, you need only one guess as to who is head of the house.

The most flattering thing you can say of a man is that he is a "man's man"; yet, with all his sagacity, no man is ever astute enough to size a woman up according to her popularity with her own sex.

There is a "becoming length" in love affairs, just as there is in skirts and bobs; and a woman's intuition should tell her just where to cut them off before they make her look ridiculous.

Not every man believes that he is another Robert Taylor or a replica of Gene Raymond; but if the girl who loves him, insists that he is, for be it from him to dispute her taste.

A beauty treatment and a fresh wave are always a sort of spiritual uplift to a woman; but a clean shave, a haircut and massage merely give a man an upsurging of the vanity, which sometimes ends in a little sentimental sidestepping.

It is not until a girl has been married for a little while that she learns that the way to a man's heart is through his imagination—not through his eardrums.

• • •

A man may fly from temptation—but he always looks back over his lucky shoulder—in the hope that it is following him.

Daily Pattern for Home Use

BY ANNE ADAMS

FOR THOSE "SPECIAL" OCCASIONS

Do you want to appear delightfully feminine and truly frivolous at those dress-up occasions? Then make the "just right frock" designed especially for you by Anne Adams and it's the very latest fashion "hint" for summer. You'll adore the low V neckline with the flattering soft bow, full rippling sleeves, and smart curved yokes. If you prefer, leave the neckline plain and add a saucy button trim. You'll find this demure model a delight to make and stitch and as easy to make as it is to behold! Pattern 4433 could be delightful made up in a flowered volle, splashy silk print or batiste.

Pattern 4433 is available in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards 39-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send Fifteen Cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style number.

Welcome the new Anne Adams Pattern Book as a Guide to Summer Chic! It's brimming with flattering, easy-to-sew styles, slimming models the matron will love, eye-appealing sports, afternoon and dress-up frocks for Every age—tots, juniors and Teens included. Profit by timely hints on summer Fabrics, on Accessories, and how to keep "flower fresh." Send for Your Copy now! Book, Fifteen Cents. Pattern Fifteen Cents. Twenty-five cents for both when ordered together.

PATTERN 4433

The Stars Say—

For Saturday June 5

AFFAIRS OF a lively, interesting and pleasant nature may be accelerated by the rather fortunate rule of the governing stars for this day. Progress, opportunity and profitable conditions regarding finance are foreseen with possible notice or orders from important personages. A menace of intrigue or jealousy is seen, with a little danger in employment or in private affairs.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a lively, eventful and progressive year, with much pleasure and interest in both social and business lives. Some domestic and romantic affairs intrigue, and may undergo peculiar angles.

A child born on this day may be progressive, talented and ambitious in its public as well as private lives. Its culture, refinement, social graces and instincts will win it high place in social and fashionable positions.

A reversible ratchet wrench whose work has four pawls instead of the usual two and 50 instead of 24 teeth.

SUSAN, THERE ARE SOME THINGS I CAN'T UNDERSTAND MR POPEYE SAYS HE'S A GENTLEMAN AND HE SEEMS TO THINK THAT THAT MAKES EVERYTHING ALL RIGHT
OH, HE CERTAINLY IS A GENTLEMAN - AND HE'S KIND-HEARTED, TOO - LOOK WHAT HE DID FOR ME —
WHAT DID HE DO FOR YOU, SUSAN?
ETC - ETC — WHISKERS, THE FRUIT STORE MAN, HAD ME ARRESTED BECAUSE WELL - I'D BEEN LIVING OFF THE FRUIT I'D STOLEN — YOU SEE, I DIDN'T WANT TO STARVE TO DEATH - I WAS ON MY WAY TO JAIL WHEN MR. POPEYE CAME ALONG
HE GOT ME AWAY FROM THE OFFICER AND CARRIED ME TO MY ROOM - I WAS PUT OUT OF MY ROOM BECAUSE MY BROTHER, WHO WAS SUPPOSED TO TAKE CARE OF ME, DISAPPEARED AND I HAD NO MONEY
I WAS TAKEN TO JAIL - THEN POPEYE TORE THE BARS FROM MY CELL WINDOW AND GOT ME OUT - YOU SEE, HE GOT HIMSELF IN TROUBLE JUST TO HELP ME — SO WE TURNED TRAMPS - HE THOUGHT I'D GET MY HEALTH BACK OUT IN THE SUNSHINE
AND LISTEN, I USED TO THINK HE WAS THE UGLIEST MAN ON EARTH. BUT NOW I THINK HE'S HANDSOME — YOU'LL THINK SO, TOO, WHEN YOU KNOW HIM BETTER

WELL, HOW'S THE FUTURE MRS. MACDOUGALL?
I'M GLAD YOU'RE HERE, MAC - DAD FEELS LOW ABOUT OUR GETTING MARRIED MAYBE YOU CAN CHEER HIM UP
TILLIE TELLS ME YOU'RE LOW IN SPIRITS
I JEST FEEL LIKE I'M LOSIN' TILLIE RIGHT AFTER I FOUND HER
CHEER UP, POP — YOU AIN'T LOSIN' A DAUGHTER YOU'RE JUST GETTIN' A SON

MY STARS, TOOTS, IS THAT CLARICE?
YES, THE BEAUTY SHOP DID A GOOD JOB, DON'T YOU THINK?
LOOK AT MY NAILS SHINE!
CLARICE, YOU LOOK SWELL!
GEE, UNCLE CASPER, WHAT WILL THE PEOPLE BACK HOME THINK WHEN THEY SEE ME POWDERED AND ROUGED?
HMM - IF SHE HAD LOOKED LIKE THIS WHEN SHE ARRIVED WE'D HAD SOME FUN WITH TOOTS!
GEE, AND WHEN THE FOLKS BACK THERE SEE MY MANICURED TOE-NAILS! I KNOW IT WILL CAUSE TALK!
IF THE BEAUTY SHOP IMPROVED CLARICE LIKE THAT, WHY NOT ME? STILL, THERE'S NOTHING WRONG WITH MY FACE! I'M JUST ABOUT RIGHT AS I AM!

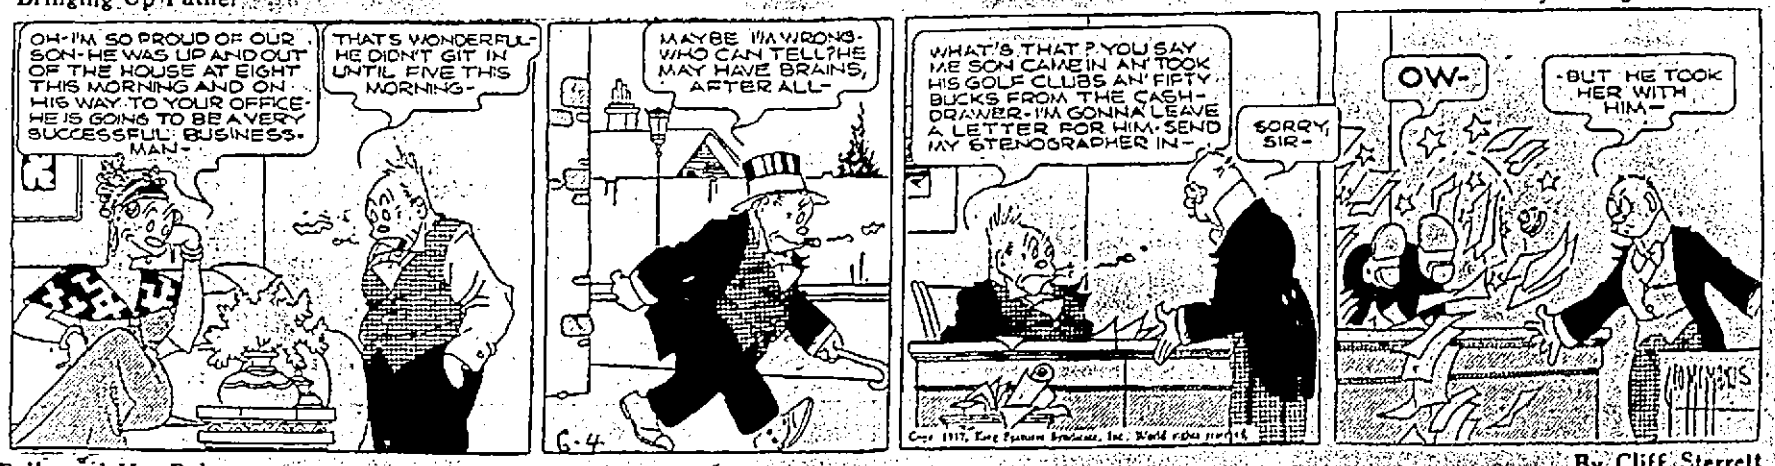
By Brandon Walsh

GEE, MR. MENTELL, I GUESS THAT THIS IS THE NICEST GARDEN IN THE WHOLE WORLD - LITTLE FLOWERS AND BIG FLOWERS JUST TO LOOK AT 'EM MAKES ME FEEL GLAD ALL OVER
I AM HAPPY TO KNOW YOU ARE A LOVER OF FLOWERS - THERE IS NOTHING LOVELIER THAN A GARDEN IN BLOOM - EVERY SINGLE BLOSSOM IS ANOTHER TINY ATOM ADDED TO THE BEAUTY OF THE EARTH
I COULD NEVER LEARN TO COMPLETELY TRUST A PERSON WHO DID NOT LIKE FLOWERS - MY ASSISTANT, JAN SINGA - IS CLEVER - PAINSTAKING - A HARD WORKER - I ADMIRE HIM - AND YET
DARRELL McCLURE
BUT HE BELIEVES FLOWERS ARE WORTHLESS THINGS, USING THE GROUND THAT SHOULD BE DEVOTED TO RAISING WHEAT AND VEGETABLES, AS A MATTER OF DOLLARS AND CENTS - HE MAY BE RIGHT - BUT HIS HATRED FOR FLOWERS - HAS ALWAYS RISEN LIKE A WALL BETWEEN US

Bringing Up Father

By George McManus



OH - I'M SO PROUD OF OUR SON - HE WAS UP AND OUT OF THE HOUSE AT EIGHT THIS MORNING AND ON HIS WAY TO YOUR OFFICE - HE IS GOING TO BE A VERY SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS-MAN -
THAT'S WONDERFUL - HE DIDN'T GIT IN UNTIL FIVE THIS MORNING -
MAYBE I'M WRONG - WHO CAN TELL? HE MAY HAVE BRAINS, AFTER ALL -
WHAT'S THAT? YOU SAY ME SON CAME IN AN' TOOK HIS GOLF CLUBS AN' FIFTY BUCKS FROM THE CASH-DRAWER - I'M GONNA LEAVE A LETTER FOR HIM - SEND MY STENOGRAPHER IN -
SORRY, SIR -
OW -
- BUT HE TOOK HER WITH HIM -

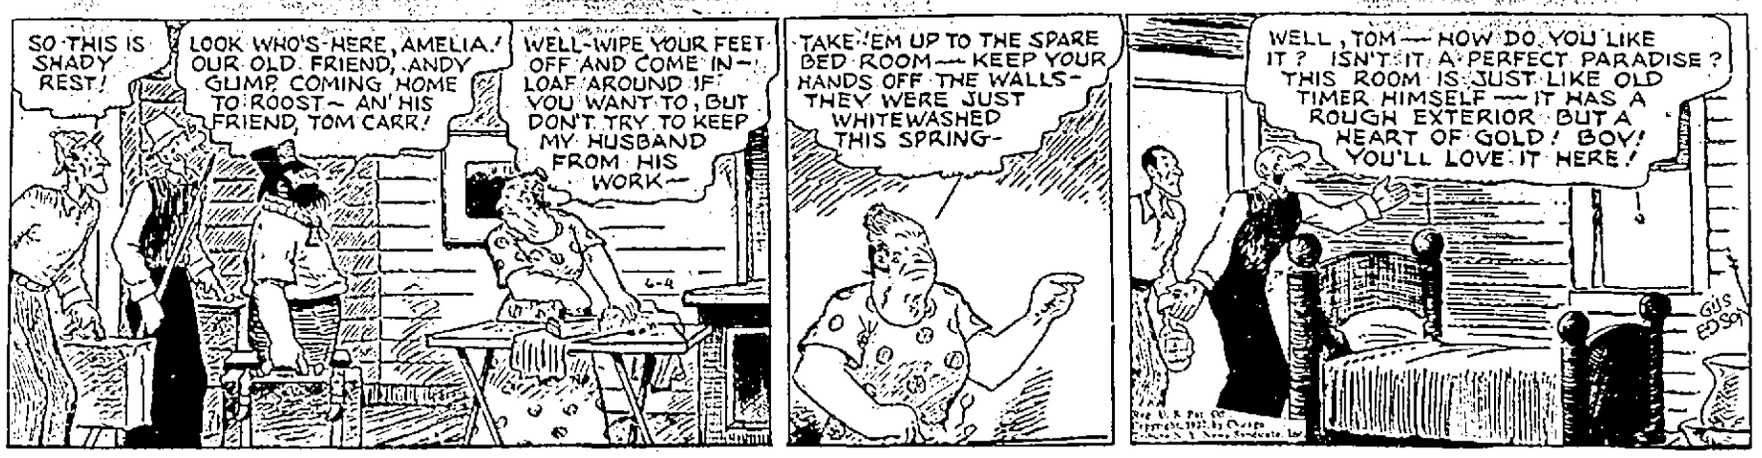
The Gumps — By Gus Edson



SO THIS IS SHADY REST!
LOOK WHO'S HERE, AMELIA! OUR OLD FRIEND, ANDY GUMP COMING HOME TO ROOST— AN' HIS FRIEND, TOM CARR!
WELL WIPE YOUR FEET OFF AND COME IN— LOAF AROUND IF YOU WANT TO, BUT DON'T TRY TO KEEP MY HUSBAND FROM HIS WORK—
TAKE 'EM UP TO THE SPARE BED ROOM— KEEP YOUR HANDS OFF THE WALLS— THEY WERE JUST WHITEWASHED THIS SPRING—
WELL, TOM— HOW DO YOU LIKE IT? ISN'T IT A PERFECT PARADISE? THIS ROOM IS JUST LIKE OLD TIMER HIMSELF— IT HAS A ROUGH EXTERIOR BUT A HEART OF GOLD! BOY! YOU'LL LOVE IT HERE!

Wool Market

BOSTON, June 4—Buyers continued inquiries for various lines of domestic wools today. While actual buying was rather limited there was a broadening tendency in trade as immediate needs were covered.

Good French combing fine territory wools in original bags were sold at 95@97 cents scoured basis to buyers who have urgent needs to cover.

Bids made for supplies in anticipation of needs were mostly below 95 cents. However, sizable lots were firmly held at 95 cents scoured basis.

LIST CONTINUES TO DRIFT DOWN

Ticker Tape Virtually Stops as Volume Dwindles to New Low.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 4—Aside from a few specialties, stocks were unable to get a grip on recovery in today's market.

In another of the slowest sessions in two years the drift was generally lower. The ticker tape dawdled from the start and near the fourth hour was virtually at a standstill.

Further becalming influences were seen in the steel strike deadlock and in large question marks attached to the international gold situation. At the same time business news was not without its bright aspects.

Bonds and commodities skidded along with stocks. The principal foreign currencies moved up in terms of the dollar.

Shares inclined to back water the greater part of the day included Republic Steel, Chrysler, General motors, Goodrich, Douglas Aircraft, Consolidated Edison, Western Union, American Water Works, North American, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Can, General Electric, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, Santa Fe, Borg Warner and Woolworth.

A boosted dividend gave Briggs Mfg. a lift and Electric Autolite improved. Resistant were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Inland Steel, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Electric Power & Light, Westinghouse, Standard Oil of California, Atlantic Refining, Loew's, Contigental Oil, Zenith Radio, Boeing and Pennsylvania.

More debasement gold swamped London dealers and the British price was reduced approximately eight cents an ounce. Some $21,000,000, the heaviest offerings in some time, were absorbed as Europeans were still said to be suffering from fears the United States will later be forced to cut its present buying price.

SCHOOL RECEIVES CHAMPIONSHIP CUP

Marble Title Winner Makes Presentation.

James Midlam, who won the city marble shooting championship in a tournament sponsored by the Y. M. C. A., presented the cup which he won for the Olney avenue school to his brother Russell, a fifth grade pupil, in a program yesterday afternoon on the school lawn.

Russell Midlam received the cup on behalf of the school. The title champion received a certificate of award and a certificate also was presented to Robert Anderson who won the broad and high jumps in the recent city track meet. Certificates commemorating the victories also were presented to the school by the Y.

One hundred and thirty reading certificates were awarded, 37 pupils received diplomas for having completed a four-year course of reading, and 36 seals were presented for having continued the reading program over a period of five or six years. The teachers presented the certificates. Miss Luella Scholl, principal, presided for the program.
